

Two striking unions close Mead plant here

Local workers honoring pickets for 'health and safety reasons'

By ED SUMMERS

Operations at the Mead Containers Corp. plant in Washington C.H.'s Industrial Park were halted Tuesday morning by picketers from two striking unions at the Mead Corporation facility in Chillicothe.

Wendell Nichols, president of Local 1070, representing approximately 100 workers at the Washington C.H. plant, emphasized that employees here were not on strike. "We are not crossing the picket lines because of health and safety reasons," he explained. Nichols said Washington C.H. workers would gladly return to their jobs if the company would take action to remove the picket lines.

"The management told me it was our (the union) responsibility to have the pickets removed," Nichols commented, indicating the local union would take no such action.

Only management and supervisory personnel remained on the job at the Washington C.H. plant Tuesday morning.

Members of the Local 1070 said they had no advance warning or communications with the two striking unions, Local 731 and Local 988 of United Paper Workers International Union, before pickets were placed at the Washington C.H. plant. Workers said the picket lines had been established when they arrived at the plant at 6 a.m. Tuesday.

Washington C.H. plant manager Joe Rourke declined to comment on the situation.

The Washington C.H. plant, located on Kenskill Avenue, produces corrugated packaging cartons for industrial users.

Union members maintaining the picket lines said they were not stopping any vehicles from entering the plant but were asking the local workers to honor the picket line. "We are not here to cause any trouble," one of the picketers commented.

The major issue of the strike which has idled 2,500 workers at the Chillicothe plant and employees at the Escanaba, Mich., plant is a proposed reduction in the company pension plan.

According to union officials, the company is requesting a change in the pension plan so that a retired person will not be paid on a percentage basis, but on a fixed level. They claim the proposed change would cost a retired worker with 35 years of service $200 per month in pension payments.

Mead said increased wages and operating costs have driven the cost of pensions upward in the last few years to the point where a retired worker with social security and a working spouse would be making more off the job than on.

The strike at the Chillicothe plant began at midnight Monday, ten days after the contract expired.

MEAD PICKET LINE — Monty Arledge and James McBrayer, both of Chillicothe and members of Local 731, man a picket line near the entrance to the Mead Containers Corp. plant in the city's industrial park. Members of the two striking Chillicothe unions were manning the lines here which were being honored by employees here Tuesday because of "health and safety reasons."

One case ignored

Grand jury returns eight indictments

A total of eight indictments were returned Monday by the Fayette County grand jury against four Washington C. H. area residents.

Nine cases were presented to the grand jury by Fayette County prosecuting attorney James A. Kiger and assistant prosecutor John H. Roszmann. One case was ignored.

Donald P. Foxworth Jr., 19, of 703 Church St., was indicted on five counts of aggravated burglary. Foxworth was arrested by Washington C. H. police officers early Aug. 4 following a series of burglaries on the city's east side. He is charged with burglaries at the residences of Harold Speelman, 853 Church St., Robert Munn, 1220 Cornell Dr., John Morris, 793 McLean St., Charles S. Sheppard, 824 Church St., and Glenn Baker, 6 Winnipeg Plaza.

Craig F. Stewart, 23, Rt. 6, was indicted on a felonious assault charge stemming from an incident at Fayette Memorial Hospital on July 25. Stewart allegedly entered the emergency room of Fayette Memorial Hospital and struck Dr. Richard L. Sartini, Cincinnati, fracturing the physician's nose.

Gary A. Frye, 21, of 710 E. Paint St., was indicted for obstruction of justice in connection with the arrest of Calvin M. Justice, 21, Xenia, on a drug charge. Frye was arrested July 3 by Washington C. H. police officers.

Frye allegedly told police officers he had no idea of the whereabouts of Justice who was found minutes later hiding on the floorboard of Frye's automobile.

Robert A. Merriman, 23, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, was indicted for receiving stolen property. He is charged with possession of a tape recorder and a .22-caliber pistol and holster stolen from the Keith Higgins residence, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville.

Four witnesses testified before the jury.

Paintings removed in dispute

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Because the Ohio Arts Council can't legally get insurance, paintings that decorated the walls of Gov. James A. Rhodes' office complex and the House of Representatives have been removed.

The council had obtained the paintings from galleries around the state. Paintings on display in the governor's office area had been there three years. The House paintings were changed every two months over the past five years.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown, in an opinion sought by the council, said that state agencies are prohibited from purchasing liability insurance to cover theft or damage. The council said its $1 million budget could not afford any lawsuits for a loss.

John Briley, assistant council director, said the paintings wouldn't be shown again until Brown changes his opinion or the legislature passes a law covering the council for such displays.

Ohio departments do not buy insurance because the state has a law requiring self-insurance, Briley said. The council had nevertheless insured the paintings last year for $50,000, costing it $688.

The value of the works range from $150 for a painting entitled "I Met Them at Their Door" to $10,000 for one of a famed Ohio Civil War family entitled, "The Fighting McCooks."

Coffee Break..

OFFICIALS at the Washington C. H. Middle School are preparing for the new school year.

Registration for new students, sixth through eighth grade, who have moved into the Washington C. H. School District over the summer months, will be held from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday in the principal's office in the Middle School building.

Principal Ben Roby has also announced times when regular students can obtain their new schedules.

Sixth graders can pick up their schedules at 9:30 a.m. Monday, Aug. 25 in the Middle School auditorium.

Schedules for seventh graders will be distributed at 1:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 25. The seventh graders should also report to the auditorium.

Eighth graders can obtain their new schedules from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the principal's office in the Middle School building.

THE CLASS of 1950 of Washington High School is planning a carry-in picnic at the shelter house in Eyman Park at noon Sunday. All class members and their families are invited to attend. Persons with questions regarding the get-together may call Mrs. Jon Ervin (426-6486).

Detente no license for meddling

Ford warns Soviet Union

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — President Ford warned the Soviet Union today that detente "is not a license to fish in troubled waters" and said he will seek additional strategic weapons if there is no new agreement on limiting nuclear arms.

The President chose a strongly anti-Communist audience, the American Legion's national convention, to declare that the United States is keeping a wary eye on the Soviet Union, especially in Portugal, to determine its true intentions on detente.

The speech highlighted a second busy day of a two-day swing through four states. He planned appearances later in the day in Pekin and Peoria, Ill.

In the prepared text for his Legion address, Ford said that to him detente means "moderate and restrained behavior between two superpowers — not a license to fish in troubled waters."

The President told the Legion group, which has criticized detente, that he would continue to work toward relaxation of tensions between the two nations.

He said his meetings with Soviet Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev have been "constructive and helpful," but "future success will depend on concrete developments."

"We are now carefully watching some serious situations for indications of the Soviet attitude towards detente and cooperation in European security."

"The situation in Portugal is one of these," Ford said. "We are deeply concerned about the future of freedom in Portugal."

The President said that in Portugal, where Communists are exerting a strong influence in the government, "The wishes of a moderate majority have been subverted by forces more determined than representative."

On national security, the President told the Legionaires, "I am committed to keeping America's defenses second to none."

He said he hoped to hold down spending on nuclear forces next year, but "this tentative judgment is conditioned on real progress in SALT II. But the Congress and the American people must realize that, unless agreement is achieved, I will have no choice but to recommend to Congress an additional $2 billion to $3 billion for strategic weapons programs in the current and coming fiscal years," the President warned.

On other subjects, the President said:

—"Any reckless congressional action to cripple the effectiveness of our intelligence services in legitimate operations would be catastrophic." But he said, "I do not condone improper activities or violation of the constitutional rights of Americans by any personnel or agency of the federal government."

—He is troubled by Congress' refusal to permit shipment of arms to Turkey but added "I know that when the bottom line of any issue is the ultimate security of the United States, the Congress and the President have always found the way to close the ranks and act as one."

The President started today with an early breakfast meeting with newspaper and broadcasting executives from Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri.

CTA still 'dissatisfied'

City teachers receive base salary increases

BY SANDY FOSSON

Approximately 50 city teachers attending Monday's meeting of the Washington C. H. City Board of Education in an attempt to adjust the teachers' salary schedules for the coming year were given little input as board members advised the group they had voted in closed session prior to the meeting to establish the salary at an $8,000 base over the present $7,350 minimum.

Edwin M. Nestor, superintendent of Washington C. H. schools, stated the board came to the $8,000 figure during a short meeting with members of an executive committee of the City Teachers Association.

He added the $8,000 minimum base is $600 above the minimum base set by Ohio Senate Bill No. 170, awaiting the signature of Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes for the bill to become law. The bill sets the teacher salary base at $7,400 beginning November, 1975, retroactive to September and increases to $7,900 in July, 1976.

The new salary schedules adopted by the board will increase the pay for a beginning teacher from $7,350 to $8,000 and the maximum pay for a teacher with a master's degree and 15 hours of doctoral work and 10 years experience from $13,105 to $14,264.

Nestor noted the board would again reopen discussion of the salary question next summer as is normal procedure by the board.

Walter E. (Gene) Bienz, president of the board, stated, "We have done what we felt we could do. We had so much money and that is all we feel we have (to allocate to salaries)."

Tom Gauldin, chairman of the public relations committee for the City Teachers Association and spokesman for the group, told board members the executive committee had hoped to reach a satisfactory agreement on an $8,350 base.

He charged the board with using salary monies to build up the board's surplus. Gauldin accused the board of taking "taxpayers' money and building it in savings" and continually increasing the source of income at the end of each year while the percentage of teacher salaries had decreased in proportion.

"We accept inflation has encouraged reductions in spending and increases in saving but we cannot accept those reductions in salaries," Gauldin read from a prepared statement. "We must report to the entire membership of our organization on the salary established by the board. If they are happy, we'll thank you, but I cannot recommend that as a positive action."

Gauldin added the CTA felt two rumors should be clarified: one, a circulating rumor of a teacher strike was totally unfounded and two, the school is not heading into a financial crisis.

Gauldin blamed the local news media for giving residents the idea that the school was in severe financial trouble by front page headlines declaring a deficit budget.

"Deficit budgets are routinely passed and adopted by the school boards," he said. "The schools are not in financial jeopardy. In fact," he added, "the city schools are so financially sound they have had carryover balances the past few years."

Following the meeting, Gauldin said while the CTA did not expect the board to take action and set the minimum at an $8,000 base, they were "still dissatisfied." He stated the surplus over the years had apparently been provided through funds set aside for salaries and Stewart Miller, a representative from the Ohio Education Association attending the meeting, advised the teachers organization to consider collective bargaining procedures.

Glenn may not back Gilligan or Metzenbaum for Senate

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, has hinted he may not support former Gov. John J. Gilligan or former Sen. Howard Metzenbaum if either receives the Democratic nomination for the Senate next year.

Glenn acknowledged that wounds received during intraparty battles last year still are raw. He refused to pledge support for either man, both of whom have been mentioned as Democratic opponents to Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, whose term expires.

Glenn, in an interview with the Dayton Journal-Herald, was asked if wounds from last year's party battles have healed.

"I don't know what you mean by the big wounds," Glenn replied.

He paused, then added: "Well, we've had very little contact since the election last year. I don't know, we'll see what happens next year. Who knows?"

Glenn paused again, then said: "I take back what I said. I know what you mean about the big wounds—I've got them all over me."

Glenn's dispute with Gilligan and Metzenbaum began last year when Gilligan, favoring Metzenbaum, tried to dissuade the former astronaut from running for the Senate.

The split widened later when former Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, resigned his seat to become attorney general. Gilligan, then governor, named Metzenbaum to fill out the term while at the same time arranging for the Democratic party to endorse Metzenbaum in the 1974 primary.

Glenn bolted and ran for the Democratic nomination without official party support. He defeated Metzenbaum in the primary, then went on to defeat Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk for the seat.

The senator said he would remain neutral during the senatorial primary campaign. He said his staff has been instructed not to actively support any primary candidate.

Despite Glenn's avowed neutrality, however, the Journal-Herald said four of his campaign aides last year are active in the senatorial campaign of Rep. James V. Stanton, D-Ohio.

The newspaper identified the four as Stephen J. Kovacic, Glenn's chief strategist; Warren R. Baltimore, Glenn's deputy campaign director; Burt Schildhouse, a media consultant to Glenn's campaign, and Martin J. Sammon, Glenn's Cuyahoga County campaign chairman.

Sammon is Stanton's cousin.

At Ohio State Fair

Miss Grover Tamworth queen

Sixteen-year-old Cindi Grover will serve as the 1975 Ohio Tamworth swine queen during this year's Ohio State Fair in Columbus.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Grover, 2906 Parrott Station Road, Cindi will assist with the Tamworth swine show on August 26 and also participate in the "Queen of Queens" contest on August 31.

Cindi will be a junior at Miami Trace High School this fall. She participates in the high school band and the Folksingers group. She is a member of the Ambitious Farmers 4-H Club and is enrolled in swine and sheep projects.

In addition to her duties as Ohio's Tamworth queen, Cindi will be showing her Tamworth swine and Dorset sheep in the junior and senior divisions of the Ohio State Fair.

San Francisco police on strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Snipers fired shots at a police station early today, less than 12 hours after policemen unpinned their badges and hoisted picket signs in a strike for more pay.

Striking policemen at the station abruptly left their picket lines after the shooting began and helped arrest three young men.

In an earlier incident, an angry motorist ran over two picketing policemen.

City officials have pledged that the strike will not lead to a reign of lawlessness.

More than 90 per cent of the 1,935-member force struck Monday afternoon after the San Francisco Board of Supervisors refused to meet pay hike demands by the 1,800-member Police Officers Association.

Picket lines immediately went up outside the city's nine police stations, including headquarters at the Hall of Justice.

Police reported two sniping incidents at the Ingleside station beginning at 1:25 a.m. Shots were fired from the San Francisco City College area and from a nearby construction firm.

Officers inside the station shut off all lights, and police picketing outside discarded their signs and joined in a

Kent attorney's life threatened

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The lead attorney in the trial seeking damages for those who were shot at Kent State University five years ago said he was warned today not to show up for his summation.

The attorney, Joseph Kelner, said the threat which came by telephone was the third he had received since last Friday.

He said the threats wouldn't prevent his giving the closing statements that are expected Wednesday or Thursday. "There's nothing you can do about it," he said of the threat. "It just goes to show there's a lot of nuts out there."

Court broadens abortion rights

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The right of a girl or a woman to have an abortion is strictly her own, says a federal appeals court. A wife doesn't have to ask her husband, a minor doesn't have to ask her parents.

In affirming the decision of U.S. District Court in Miami, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals declared two Florida abortion statutes unconstitutional.

One of the statutes protected the rights of a husband.

But the appeals court noted Monday that the statute dealt with the husband — not necessarily the fetus's father — and said:

"The rights of the husband, which arguably spring from his interest in the fetus, are of doubtful applicability in this case."

It added, however, that it may be paradoxical for the federal government to hold both that men have a right to beget and raise offspring and that women have a right to abort them.

"The state may secure the man's procreative rights by merely making unconsented abortion as grounds for divorce," it suggested.

"The man may then enter into a new marriage relationship and the state may thereby protect his procreative interests without infringing upon the former wife's right to abortion."

The appeals court said a minor's right to an abortion must be upheld because teen-age motherhood could seriously impair a girl's physical and psychological health.

"The magnitude of the minor's interest ... suggests that the developmental differences between adults and minors do not warrant denying constitutional protection to the minor's abortions," the appeals court said.

It said most girls would normally consult their parents, but it added that the decision would prevent a hostile set of parents from forbidding an abortion without considering the best interests of their daughter.

"The requirement of parental permission is unlikely to achieve the state's aim of insuring the preservation of the family," the court said. "If a minor's pregnancy has fractured the family structure, imposition of a parental prohibition of abortion cannot reasonably be expected to restore the family's viability as a unit."

Guaranteed pension hikes, full pay go to ex-judges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal judges now can look to retiring at full pay with guaranteed automatic pension increases to keep up with increases in the cost of living.

Pension immunity from inflation for the more than 600 federal judges is one effect of the pay-raise bill signed recently by President Ford and brings the federal bench to a par with a number of state courts.

The pay-raise measure affects judges' pensions because their retirement pay generally is defined as the full salary for their last post, court administrative officials say. Therefore, as basic pay for judges goes up under terms of the pay-raise bill, pensions for retired federal jurists also will increase.

The new law also provides pay raises for the vice president, members of Congress, Cabinet members and other top officials. But their pensions are calculated differently, and they don't retire at full pay.

All pay hikes under the new law will be keyed to rises in the consumer price index, which is used to measure changes in the cost of living. The pay raise this year could be as much as 8 per cent, although Ford, who must recommend the precise figure, has talked in terms of a 5 per cent raise.

Here is an example of how the law will work for federal judges:

A U.S. district judge now is paid $40,000 a year. A retired U.S. district judge also draws a $40,000 annual pension if the judge retired at age 65 or older.

If this year's cost-of-living pay raise turns out to be 5 per cent, the active district judge would get a $2,000 pay raise to $42,000. The retired judge also would get a $2,000 pension increase if the retired judge left the bench at age 70 after 10 years of service or at age 65 after 15 years service.

The pension and salary increases would be even larger for appellate judges, who earn $42,500, associate Supreme Court justices, who earn $60,000 and for the chief justice, who earns $62,500.

All judges who meet the retirement age requirements get full salary, but only those who meet the service requirements are eligible for the cost-of-living increases.

Court administrative officials say that based on past experience all but a few federal judges will draw the cost-of-living increase.

Woman gets prison term

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mary Lombardi, a 48-year-old school teacher accused of killing her son in a hospital emergency room, pleaded guilty to manslaughter on Monday.

She was sentenced to a term of 4 to 25 years.

Mrs. Lombardi was originally indicted in Franklin County Common Pleas Court for aggravated murder in the April 25 slaying of her 18-year-old son, Joseph Charles Lombardi.

Police said Lombardi was taken to the emergency room suffering from a drug overdose. At least a half-dozen witnesses saw the woman go behind a partition where her son lay strapped to a table.

Seconds later six shots split the quiet of the hospital and Mrs. Lombardi emerged from behind the curtain, a .22 caliber revolver clutched in her hand, witnesses told police.

Woman gets prison term

No other injuries were reported. The shots fired from the construction site were from a heavy-caliber rifle, Cannon said. No one was arrested in that incident.

Earlier, two striking policemen were hit by a car as they picketed outside the Mission station. Nonstriking police arrested Thomas Oxtien, 50, at a bar about midnight, said Sgt. James McCarthy. Neither officer was seriously injured, authorities said.

Chenault won't resign despite conviction

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Vice Mayor William Chenault, after pleading guilty to four counts of falsification of city records, said he will not resign his post.

Chenault, however, said he has not yet formulated further political plans. The Cincinnati Democrat's candidacy for reelection to Cincinnati City Council this fall was not endorsed by the local party.

A police spokesman said the American, Barry Meeker, 33, of Hartford, Conn., was under investigation for alleged illegal border crossing from West Germany into Austria initially, violation of foreign air space and filing a false flight plan. Meeker, according to police, reported on departing Munich-Riem Airport Sunday that he was making local flights.

Investigators also were trying to determine whether Meeker had flown similar escape missions in the past, the spokesman said.

Meeker, describing himself as a decorated Vietnam war veteran and former member of Special Forces, said friendship motivated him to take part in the perilous airborne escape.

He said he lifted out three members of an East German family, including two men and a 14-year-old girl who was shot in the leg.

But he said he was forced to leave behind an injured woman and a friend who had requested the rescue and "their fate is unknown."

"The two men with the family had already boarded and my friend actually threw the (wounded) girl into the helicopter," he said.

Then shots, apparently from a rifle equipped with telescopic sight, "came at intervals of about five to seven seconds," he said.

"Ahead of me was an elderly lady on the ground, obviously injured, and then suddenly bullets hit me right through said Monday the unions will refuse to handle the grain cargoes until the Ford administration guarantees that consumers are protected from higher prices and takes steps to provide more work for American seamen.

The boycott is being imposed at Great Lakes, Gulf and East Coast ports because the grain sales to the Soviet Union would "cost American consumers billions of dollars," Meany told newsmen in Washington.

The stop-work order came after the International Longshoremen's Association and five other AFL-CIO maritime unions last month threatened to boycott the new Soviet grain shipments.

There was no immediate reaction from Ford administration officials.

However, Gov. Robert F. Bennett of Kansas — the nation's biggest wheat-producing state — called the boycott "arrogant."

"The refusal of longshoremen to load American wheat on vessels bound for the Soviet Union is an ill-conceived grandstand play that could have tragic consequences for the wheat-producing Midwest and our entire nation," Bennett said.

The governor urged President Ford "to take quick and forceful action to see that the export of U. S. grain is not disrupted."

Board members of the Kansas Farm Bureau directed John Junior Armstrong, their president, to investigate the possibility of a $1-billion class action suit against the AFL-CIO and the International Longshoremen's Association.

"It's hard to believe that one man can bring economic havoc on American agriculture, but Meany did it," Armstrong said.

Meany said orders were issued Monday to stop handling grain on two ships in the Port of Houston until it can be determined whether the cargo involves new purchases or shipments under an earlier deal. Old purchases will be loaded, he said.

However, longshoremen in Houston continued to load grain bound for Russia. A spokesman for the AFL-CIO said later there apparently was a lag before the longshoremen received official orders not to load ships.

Citing rising prices for flour, wheat, corn and soybeans over the past month, Meany told a news conference the new grain purchases will "give the Russians an open door to our private grain market ... in a way that is going to cost the American consumer billions of dollars."

"The American housewife is still paying" for the 1972 grain deal which resulted in higher domestic prices, Meany said, asserting that "this is not going to happen again."

Meany suggested that any new grain purchases should be made on a government-to-government basis instead of permitting private industry to negotiate the sales.

The grain boycott affects ports on the East and Gulf coasts and the Great Lakes, where the longshoremen's union represents dock workers. West coast dock workers are represented by an independent union which has not joined the protest.

Periods of cloudiness were to cover the state today as showers and thundershowers to the west and south of Ohio move southeast.

The morning weather map was dominated by a large high pressure area. It extended from west of Hudson Bay, through the upper Great Lakes, to the upper Ohio Valley. It was to slide east and Ohio was not to receive the clear skies usually associated with large high pressure areas.

There was considerable cloudiness around the state during the night. In fact a few drops of rain even fell on northern counties around midnight.

The main effect of the cloudiness though was to hold temperatures 5 to 10 degrees higher than expected. Temperatures in the 50s were expected to be common by dawn. Instead only Marietta had fallen that low, and then only to 59 degrees.

Meeker said the family was not at the pre-arranged meeting spot when he landed and "the whole affair was delayed. Instead of 10 seconds, as previously calculated, I had to remain almost two minutes on the ground. When the refugees arrived at the helicopter, I noticed that the girl was shot through her leg."

Fearing that the shots might ruin the entire mission, Meeker said he signalled his friend to leave the injured woman and come aboard.

"But he did not see me. When I heard another shot fired at the helicopter, I thought, 'Now you've got to get out of here fast, or else we've all had it.'"

"I took off, flying toward Munich at high altitude, but noticed very quickly that my fuel was running low. Having been a rescue pilot before, I knew my way to Traunstein hospital and had

Stock list declines

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined steadily today under the renewed influence of concern over inflation and rising interest rates.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 6.50 at 816.25, and losers outnumbered gainers by about a 5-3 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers noted that the market was contending with a further rise in some key short term money rates on Monday, as well as apprehension over the report due from the government on Thursday morning on the July consumer price index.

Trading remained light.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 40 to 85.72.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .28 at 45.66.

Bronfman threatened with death

NEW YORK (AP) — The alleged kidnapers of whisky heir Samuel Bronfman 2nd planned the abduction months ago and threatened to kill him and his multimillionaire father unless a ransom demand was met quickly, the FBI says.

In a complaint filed Monday in U.S. District Court, the FBI said Mel Patrick Lynch, a New York City fireman, and Dominic Byrne, a limousine operator, admitted seizing the 21-year-old victim.

Rejecting a defense plea that the two were "amateurs involved in some kind of lark," U.S. Magistrate Martin D. Jacobs set $500,000 bail for Lynch and $200,000 for Byrne on a charge of extorting the $2.3-million ransom.

Later Monday, Westchester Dist. Atty. Carl Vergari said he would press state kidnapping charges against the two Irishborn Brooklynites because they had not taken their alleged captive across state lines, a necessary qualification for applying federal kidnap statutes.

Samuel was seized early August 9 sometime after he left the lavish Yorktown Heights estate of his father, Edgar, the head of the Seagram Company, Ltd., the world's largest distillers.

After a tense week of waiting and the delivery of the $2.3 million ransom, he was rescued unharmed Sunday by the FBI and city police from Lynch's Brooklyn apartment.

The ransom money was found under a bed in a nearby apartment.

In court, FBI special agent Joseph Conley said Lynch, described as the "prime mover" in the alleged plot, prepared the ransom letter to Edgar Bronfman sometime in June "demanding a ransom and further informing him he and his son would die if payment were not made as instructed."

Mars landing pushed back

BOSTON (AP) — The administrator of the U.S. space agency says chances are slim that a Viking spacecraft will land on Mars for the nation's bicentennial celebration of Independence Day, as has been long planned.

The original schedule called for an unmanned Viking to touch down on the Red Planet on July 4, 1976.

Rainmaking questions

Cloud seeding to bring precipitation used to be fair game for jokesters. They had a lot of fun with the idea of kooky scientists functioning as would-be rainmakers, frequently without any perceptible effect on the weather.

The comic principle involved was a variant of the classic pratfall: the rainmakers were funny because they fell down a lot. This source of humor has about dried up, for the excellent reason that rainmaking — and snowmaking, too — has been perfected to the point of working more often than not.

All through the Great Plains and the West, now, computerized cloud seeding is under way to increase precipitation for various purposes, notably agriculture and hydroelectric projects. These days, in contrast to the time when cloud seeding was done at random, such enterprises benefit by accurate data about when cloud conditions are good for an infusion of silver or lead iodide crystals.

Figures on a five-year experiment in Nevada give some indication of how effective this can be. Scientists can now distinguish between ordinary snowflakes and those formed as a result of cloud seeding. They estimate that in storms brought on by cloud seeding the snowfall was 10 to 15 per cent heavier than normal.

The science of increasing precipitation has advanced, then, to the point where this can be done with reasonable assurance of success. This raises some questions: Might cloud seeding cause a flood, or adversely affect the weather outside the immediate area? Who should rightly determine when and where such weather modification can take place? As techniques improve, the need for answers to these and other pertinent questions will increase.

THESE DAYS ...By John Chamberlain

Portuguese won't succumb easily

The news from Portugal, as I write, is opaque. But with crowds in the northern part of the country storming and burning Communist headquarters, and with a position paper signed by moderate leaders of the armed forces circulating without immediate reprisal, it looks a bit hopeful that, somehow, the Soviets will be stopped short of imposing a complete proletarian dictatorship on a nation that has always been an integral part of the West.

The question is whether the Communist-backed Portuguese Premier, Vasco Goncalves, will continue to go for broke in his effort to satelitize the country for Moscow, or whether he will reverse his engines and play it cool. In Catholic Spain, in the '30s, the Communists tried in the course of civil war to take over from the republicans and lost. The Italian and French Communists have had more sense; they at least pretend to play the parliamentary game. No one would expect the Portuguese Communists to live up to what has been advertised as the spirit of Helsinki if they think they have a chance of winning quickly. But the Kremlin may have its own thoughts on the matter; with the prospect of losing the strategic Azores Islands to a local separatist movement, Brezhnev might give Goncalves the signal to compromise.

A friend who has spent some time in Portuguese Angola raises another important point. With three rival black factions slaughtering each other and the whites, too, in a hectic effort to dominate this last relic of Portugal's African empire when the day for "liberation" comes, Portuguese white settlers have been fleeing for their lives. What will happen when a quarter of a million anguished ex-colonials are suddenly dumped on their European homeland? They tend to be tough frontier types; many of them have made it a practice of keeping guns under their pillows when they go to bed. They have watched Angola squirm under the ravages provoked by Communists of both the Moscow and the Maoist variety. Moreover, they are furious because the left-dominated Lisbon government has let them down. They won't care to live in a Communist Portugal, and Goncalves will have to deal with them.

An anti-Communist victory in Portugal would have a tremendously heartening effect all over Western Europe. But even if it should come to pass, it would be a commentary on the West's essentially defensive psychology. We call it a great victory when, as in Chile, we save something that already belongs to us. Meanwhile we lose Vietnam, Mozambique and Angola to anti-Western and pro-Communist groups.

Back in 1965 Benjamin Lippincott, who taught Hubert Humphrey political science at the University of Minnesota, wrote a book called "Democracy's Dilemma: The Totalitarian Party in a Free Society." Professor Lippincott convinced Humphrey that Communists everywhere are unwilling to play by the rules of the democratic multi-party game. But if Humphrey was disposed to listen to his teacher, the rest of the American liberals were not. They sabotaged Lippincott's book.

I've been reading the book again, and find it absolutely persuasive. The nations of the West are crazy if they think Communists can be trusted to take part in democratic governments. The Communists don't believe that democratic rights imply democratic duties.

Portugal is a living demonstration of what happens when a minority Communist group, by virtue of its penetration into the military forces, thinks it has a chance of taking over against the majority. The Portuguese Communists may be beaten back this time. But the Lippincott "dilemma" will remain. The West, if it intends to live free, must go over to the offensive and get rid of its totalitarian infiltrators.

Cleveland costliest in Midwest

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Federal statistics show that transportation, housing and personal care costs continue to make Cleveland the most expensive place to live in the Midwest.

Cleveland and Buffalo are the most expensive cities to live in for retired couples in lowest incomes for cities between Washington and San Francisco, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. Buffalo was more expensive than Cleveland.

It cost a retired Cleveland couple with the lowest budget about $4,365 a year to pay for health and decency, the figures show. This is from $86 to $345 more than any other major Midwest city.

The study breaks down retired couples into low, medium and high budgets. This represents what it would cost those couples to maintain their lifestyles and wants.

The medium budget in Cleveland of $6,260 a year was highest by $33 to $544 over other Midwest cities. Cleveland's higher budget of $9,177 was second to Detroit's $9,489.

The budgets were figured for August 1974.

The bureau also reported the costs of owning a house in Cleveland were the highest in the Midwest for retired couples on low and intermediate budgets and second to Detroit for couples on higher budgets.

Malpractice plan gets jump

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's new program to offer medical malpractice insurance to doctors and hospitals unable to get it elsewhere had a built-in advantage.

Insurance Director Harry V. Jump moved quickly to set it up in the offices of the already-existing Ohio FAIR plan.

FAIR stands for Fair Access to Insurance Requirements, a program established in 1968 when big city riots made it virtually impossible for many urban property owners to get insurance in the private market.

FAIR, like the new Ohio Medical Professional Liability Insurance Association, operates around a shared risk pool that requires the participation of insurance companies licensed in Ohio.

Richard Fogo, administrator of the FAIR plan, apparently also will function as manager of the new association under a contract that will have the two groups share facilities, staff and expenses.

Fogo said the board of governors of the malpractice association will meet today in Columbus to firm up most of the details. FAIR has a staff of about two dozen, including two clerical employees added recently when the association began writing malpractice policies.

Fogo said it was not possible to put a dollar amount on administrative savings hoped to be realized by the dual functions of his office. But, he pointed out that some other comparable states, including Indiana and Wisconsin, contracted their malpractice programs out to private firms which require profit margins, including agents' commissions that run as high as 30 per cent.

Both Ohio plans are nonprofit. FAIR limits commissions to 10 per cent, while the law that created the association calls for 5 per cent with the top for any single policy set at $150.

It was expected, when the FAIR plan was created, that it would be only a temporary provider of insurance and that, eventually, private industry would move back into the market. However, it continues to write about 20,000 policies a year, said Frederick Hill, FAIR's campaign manager.

He noted that the malpractice association, under law, is scheduled to go out of existence Dec. 31, 1978. However, the law contains various reform, including continuing education for physicians, aimed at stabilizing the market enough to attract private insurers back into it.

Shriver plans presidential race

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Sargent Shriver plans to formally announce his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination as soon as he qualifies for matching federal funds under the federal election law.

A Shriver spokesman said the 1972 Democratic vice presidential candidate expects to qualify sometime next month.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Husband's boss really can't hold his liquor

DEAR ABBY: My husband is an executive with a large insurance company. My problem is my husband's boss. He's not an alcoholic, but when he drinks too much (which is every time we entertain him in our home), he loses control of his kidneys, and I can't tell you what he has done to our furniture! (I had to re-cover a satin brocade chair because the cleaners couldn't get the stain out.)

Another time the boss had one of those "accidents," my husband let him wear his best bathrobe for the rest of the evening. The boss wore it home, and I never saw it again. It happens to be the robe I gave my husband last year for Christmas, and I want him to get it back, but he doesn't have the nerve to ask for it because he doesn't want to embarrass his boss.

What do you suggest?

NAMELESS IN HARTFORD
DEAR NAMELESS: Since your husband is in the insurance business, perhaps you are covered for such damages and losses. (Have you flood insurance?) In any case, if your husband lacks the courage to ask for the robe, write off the loss. And next time you entertain the boss, make it a beach party.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to the husband who was being driven up a wall because his wife used "you know" at least once in every sentence:

I recently made a tape-recording to send to a friend, and when I played it back, I couldn't believe my ears. I had said, "and what not" at the end of nearly every sentence.

After that, I vowed to overcome that obnoxious habit.

The husband who is tired of hearing his wife say, "You know," all the time ought to rent or buy a tape recorder and get first-hand evidence of all those "you knows." After she hears it, she will clean up her act.

SUAN

DEAR SUAN: You know, that's a dandy idea!

DEAR ABBY: I am 64, I raised my children alone after an early divorce. Somehow, I never took the time to make myself glamorous or think of a second marriage.

Two years ago (at age 62), I had an excellent secretarial job. A man my age came from another state to be my boss. He was extremely attractive but he had a good marriage and grown children, so I had no designs on him.

Because he went home only on weekends, we dined together every night, and soon our friendship developed into an affair. It was the greatest thing that ever happened to me, although I knew there was no future in it.

He has now been permanently based with his office, and his wife has moved here. She and I have become the best of friends. (I am now retired.)

The wife and I visit each other, but the man I see as her husband is not the man who comes to visit me when he gets a night out alone. I still love him deeply, but I'll never do anything to cause another woman any pain. We are very discreet and no one knows. (Can you imagine two people in their 60s having an affair such as ours?)

He will eventually retire and make his home in a distant state, and I'll probably never see him again. Meanwhile, I'll enjoy whatever happiness I have with him. When he leaves, it will be over.

I enjoy my family, travel a lot and will just kill time until I'm old enough to die. I consider myself a respectable woman. There is no problem, so no solution is needed.

Thanks for reading this. I had to tell someone.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, August 19, the 231st day of 1975. There are 134 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1934, Germans voted for Adolf Hitler as a successor to President Paul von Hindenberg.

On this date:

In 1692, a clergyman and five women convicted of witchcraft were executed in Salem, Mass.

In 1812, the U.S. frigate, Constitution — known as "Old Ironsides" — defeated a British frigate in a battle in the North Atlantic.

In 1890, the Daughters of the American Revolution was organized. In 1940, in World War II, Italian forces conquered British Somaliland in Africa.

In 1955, the worst flood in the history of the northeastern United States took 200 lives in Connecticut and nine other states.

In 1966, more than 500 persons perished in an earthquake in eastern Turkey.

Ten years ago: It was announced in South Vietnam that at least 550 Vietcong guerrillas had been killed in a fierce two-day battle with U.S. Marines south of Da Nang.

Five years ago: Communist Hungary celebrated the 1,000th anniversary of the birth of the nation's first king, St. Stephen.

One year ago: U.S. Ambassador Roger Davies was killed by a bullet that penetrated the American embassy in Nicosia, Cyprus during an anti-American demonstration by Greek Cypriots.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

A stimulating day, but don't let your enthusiasms cause you to take on more than you can handle. Easy does it!

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

An excellent day for making new contacts, putting unique ideas into action. On the personal side, there's a possibility of new romance.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

A splendid Mercury day. Especially favored: writers, journalists, editors; those in the advertising and promotion fields; those in all branches of aviation.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Accept the fact that, temporarily, differences of opinion will be inevitable. Thus, you'll watch your step and do nothing to increase tensions.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

A day in which to curb your innate aggressiveness with intelligent self-discipline and stress moderation. Extremism of any kind could alienate others.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

An exciting, stimulating day. Act with confidence. Luck is with you in dealing with superiors, experts in all lines.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Augment your efforts and those of others with whatever is available in sound devices, methods and production step-up. New opportunities indicated. Prepare!

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You won't be able to accomplish all you desire, so don't try to crowd yourself or others. Stay "on target" — competent, but not pressured.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Shun breakneck speed, but neither delay nor be tardy in action. Both extremes, and others MUST be curbed.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Put past doubts, disappointments behind you; they only put limits on future progress. You could not add the "twist" that boosts projects to success.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Your analyses, conjectures, decisions must be given plenty of time in order to prevent errors. Be alert. Artistic pursuits highly favored.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Your innately good style, demeanor and cooperative attitude can win laurels. Indifference or reluctance, however, will surely disenchant others and hurt your cause. So... your best!

YOU BORN TODAY have an ardent, enthusiastic outlook on life; are endowed with an outgoing personality and the enviable gift of leadership. You are capable of reaching the top in almost any career you choose, and could go especially far in fields which involve dealing with the public. You are highly emotional, so must learn to avoid impulsiveness, going to extremes. You love luxuries and will work unstintingly to achieve them.

Controlling board in hassle with Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Controlling Board has locked horns with the Rhodes Administration over pay raises for civil service employees and layoffs in the state tax department.

The Democratic-dominated control board on Monday tabled a request by the administration for a $904,000 consultants fee to implement pay increases recommended by the Civil Service Study Commission.

Democrats say they did not oppose the salary increases, but questioned the need for another report.

At the same time, the board attempted to reinstate $2 million to prevent layoffs in the tax department, where 109 employees were dropped last week. Gov. James A. Rhodes vetoed the layoff prevention money last June as originally proposed in the state budget.

The civil service pay increases, due to take effect for 80,000 workers next Jan. 4, are tied to a complete updating of classifications in the service.

"The study was done and it was done very, very well," Administrative Services Director Richard L. Krabach told the board. "But now you have to implement it. You have to put it into effect."

Krabach said the state needs guidance in determining how pay scales should be set for 40,000 of the employees involved.

"There's no way to implement it (the pay raises). We just don't have the personnel," he said.

House Finance Chairman Myrl H. Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville said the request amounted to a "study of a study that's already been done — a repeat performance."

His motion to table the proposal until the next control board meeting in two weeks was approved 6-2 along straight party lines.

Senate Finance Chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, said he feared "every time they (the Republican administration) get in a fiscal crunch ... they're going to try to lay it at the feet of the legislature, unfairly."

Robert Howarth, the administration's representative on the control board, said the board could not properly consider appropriating the $2 million to prevent tax department layoffs.

He ruled out of order Shoemaker's motion directing the state budget office to request the money. Howarth's ruling, however, was appealed and overturned by majority Democrats, who then approved the motion in another party line vote.

Shoemaker conceded the board's directive "has no effect in law," but said Democrats do not want to be blamed for the layoffs.

"This is a sincere attempt to help a department that is struggling," he said.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said the money is needed "in order that the fiscal hardships brought to the department by the governor do not result in making his forecast of economic doom come true."

Although Rhodes vetoed the original $2 million appropriation, he sought to rechannel the money through a separate Republican-sponsored bill. That bill has been ignored by legislative leaders.

A tax agency spokesman said the $2 million might prevent any sizable future layoffs, but probably would not enable officials to rehire personnel laid off last week. The department is one of three state agencies operating with a budget under 1974-75 levels.

State controllers refused for a second time to grant a $50,000 request from the Natural Resources Department for a consultants' study of areas stripped before the 1972 reclamation law.

"We ought to address the energy emergencies, rather than these kinds of studies," Meshel said. "This is not really an emergency... I think it's a misplaced spending of $50,000." The item was indefinitely postponed.

The board also voted unanimously to table a transportation department request for $65,000 to purchase 10 acres of park land in Canton to make way for a highway.

Transportation officials could not detail the proposal when questioned by Meshel and were denied reconsideration later in the meeting. The request will be reheard at the board's next session, Howarth said.

Mrs. Hearst slates testimony

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The mother of fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst is ready to tell a federal grand jury today what she knows about the alleged harboring of her daughter at a Pennsylvania farm house.

The grand jury is investigating allegations that sports activist Jack Scott and his wife, Micki, rented the house at South Canaan in which Miss Hearst reportedly hid out for several weeks last summer.

Catherine Hearst will be the first witness to testify before the jury about her 21-year-old daughter.

Scott, former athletic director at Ohio's Oberlin College, and his wife have also been subpoenaed to testify, but they say they will not cooperate, even if they are offered immunity from prosecution.

Miss Hearst, whose father, Randolph A. Hearst, is president of the San Francisco Examiner, was kidnaped

Feb. 4, 1974, at Berkeley, Calif., by members of a small terrorist band which called itself the Symbionese Liberation Army.

She later renounced her parents and said she had joined the SLA. She is now being sought with two other SLA fugitives, William and Emily Harris, on bank robbery and weapons charges.

"I think she (Mrs. Hearst) can offer useful information as to harboring," U.S. Atty. John Cottone said after a court hearing Monday in which the Scotts and Martin Miller, a Scott friend now studying in New York, sought to quash their subpoenas on grounds they had been wiretapped, harassed and threatened by the FBI.

Government attorneys denied there was any wiretapping or harassment. U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman took the Scott-Miller requests under advisement.

Mrs. Hearst told newsmen in San Francisco last week she had no idea why she was subpoenaed to testify — "I don't know why I am going."

Scott's brother, Walter, had also been subpoenaed, but Cottone said his appearance — scheduled for today — was canceled.

"We didn't think it would be productive and might just prolong the legal hassling," Cottone said.

Walter Scott has repudiated statements in which he claimed he had seen Patricia Hearst twice since she went into hiding, and that his family helped harbor her.

In an affidavit filed with the court by Jack and Micki Scott's attorney, William Kunstler, Walter Scott said he was drinking and taking pills when he told newsmen last week about seeing Miss Hearst in his parents' Las Vegas apartment and again in New York City.

In the affidavit, Walter Scott also retracted statements that his brother knew where Miss Hearst was now and that Jack Scott demanded $200,000 from the FBI to deliver her into custody.

KSU rebuttal set on bullet claims

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Victims of the 1970 Kent State University shootings today aimed at countering testimony that one of their number might have been wounded by a non-military bullet.

The $46 million damages trial stemming from the shootings entered the rebuttal phase after the defense rested Monday.

The victims' attorneys planned to call two witnesses to tell the jury the bullet that struck Donald S. MacKenzie in the back of the neck could have come from a military weapon.

The witnesses were to be Cyril Wecht and Milton Helsen, plaintiffs' lawyers said. Wecht was identified as Allegheny County, Pa., coroner and Helsen, the former New York City medical examiner. The attorneys said both had wide experience with gunshot wounds.

Lawyers defending present and former state officials and Ohio National Guardsmen in the suit introduced testimony from an Army surgeon that a military bullet would have ripped away most of MacKenzie's cheek when it exited.

Much of the defense's case has centered on the idea that a shot from other than a guardsman's weapon could have set off the 13-second volley that left four students dead and nine wounded.

The victims contend the only shots fired at Kent State on May 4, 1970, came from guardsmen's weapons.

The victims also planned to call the roommate of a woman who testified for the defense that she saw a civilian fire the first shot. The roommates were nearly side-by-side at the time, the jury has been told.

After the rebuttal witnesses, each side will have 2½ hours for closing arguments. The judge's charge to the jury will follow the next day, and court sources said the case could go to the jury as early as Thursday afternoon.

After the defense rested, the plaintiffs dropped their claims against three former enlisted guardsmen who testified they fired only in the air. They were James K. Brown of Orrville, Ronnie B. Myers of Wooster and Lonnie D. Hinton of Ashland.

Home insulation saves energy— saves you money.

Insulation, to DP&L recommended standards, stops wasteful loss of heat from your home. It keeps the heat you pay for inside, where you want it. And it pays for itself over and over in savings on fuel bills.

Attic insulation alone can reduce gas usage by as much as 40%.
The extra comfort you enjoy—winter and summer—is a very nice bonus.

Conservation aids in making the most productive use of gas available in this area. Gas saved at home this winter could help save someone's job, since factories and many other business places will be required to get along with less gas than they need for normal operations.

Free booklet
on insulation includes detailed do-it-yourself instructions. Call DP&L Consumer Services for your copy. Or contact a qualified insulation contractor.

Man outlives predictions

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Nearly a month after he decided to forego vital kidney machine treatments, Chuck McCracken is weaker and losing weight. But he has outlived his doctor's prediction by two weeks and says he is "doing just fine."

The 37-year-old victim of kidney disease complicated by a thyroid condition, paralysis, diabetes and blindness, said during a weekend telephone interview, "I couldn't be better."

His doctor gave him two weeks to live after he unplugged himself from the kidney dialysis machine. That was July 22.

McCracken said at the time he was abandoning the machine because the treatments were agonizingly painful on account of the other medical problems complicating his disease. It was thought he had only a 30 per cent chance of living a year even with the treatments.

"The Lord is taking care of me just fine," said the invalid. "In fact, the doctor is surprised I am as well as I am."

TV Viewing

By JENNIFER KERR

Associated Press Writer

PROSPERITY, W. Va. (AP) — Mrs. Beatrice Gill strode to her wooden fence, waving her arms at the people with cameras who crept around the two giant green-and-chrome trucks toward her once-quiet home.

"Go on back," she shouted, her sunburned brow furrowing. "There's nothing you can see ... that crying baby ruined the whole scene."

The parents of the tot edged back. They looked guilty at having interfered with the filming of an episode of NBC's "Movin' On," which moved into Raleigh County this summer for a story about coal mining.

"It's more of a hassle than I ever thought," sighed Mrs. Gill, whose house was being used for some scenes in the show. "I'm really getting tore up."

She said the "Movin' On" people just knocked on her door one day and asked to use her house for filming, probably because it has what Hollywood calls authenticity. It sits alone, surrounded by piles of coal waste and there's an abandoned tippie nearby.

"Movin' On," filmed entirely on location, circled the West and Northwest last season. The West Virginia trip was its first venture East and the story it was filming concerned a strike by coal miners.

They worked at a small coal mine, "Prosperity No. 1," whose owner, portrayed by Patricia Neal, can't afford to pay salaries and meet state and federal mine safety rules at the same time.

Her non-union miners go on strike for improved safety conditions after a roof fall at the mine. It forces the two truckers of the series to take sides in the dispute.

The tough, pragmatic Sonny Pruitt (played by Claude Adkins) keeps on delivering supplies to the mine, saying he's just trying to make a living.

His partner, the college-educated Will Chandler (Frank Converse) takes the side of the striking miners.

John Wilson, location producer of the episode, said he wrote to various state chambers of commerce in coal-producing states when seeking a good spot to film the show. West Virginia got the nod.

He said when he heard about the Beckley Exhibition Mine, a city-owned mine that has been made into a coal-mining museum, he decided that "it was a natural for our purposes."

Mrs. Gill's grey frame, fourroom, located near a closed mine, was cast in the show as the home of a miner, Sampson Eubanks (played by Gary Merrill), who is leading the strike against "Prosperity No. 1."

Despite Mrs. Gill's efforts to keep crowds away and the attempt by the "Movin' On" crews to keep filming sites secret, a constant stream of people kept driving along the road in front of her home north of Beckley, edging by sheriff's deputies and taking snapshots of Converse and Adkins and their trucks.

Encephalitis outbreaks continue

By The Associated Press

Encephalitis outbreaks striking mainly at the elderly or the young have claimed at least 26 lives in the United States this year with the season for the disease only half over, medical authorities say.

A type of the disease known as the St. Louis strain has killed 24 persons in Mississippi, according to state health officials. Most of the victims were in their 60s or 70s.

Two persons have died of western equine encephalitis in North Dakota's Red River Valley, said Dr. Walton Creech, medical epidemiologist at the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Creech said the St. Louis strain tends to strike the elderly most severely while the western equine type hits infants. He said there are exceptions in both cases.

The disease is spread by mosquitoes and unseasonal flooding has resulted in a population explosion of the insects in some areas, Creech said.

The situation in Mississippi, concentrated around Greenville along the Mississippi River, already is classified as an "outbreak," the epidemiologist said.

He said there is no specific treatment for encephalitis, which is caused by a virus.

"The virus, once it invades the central nervous system in severe form, can lead to death, complete recovery or partial recovery with long-term irreversible damage," Creech said.

Spraying to control mosquitoes is the only preventive measure available, Creech said, and massive spraying in Mississippi appears to have brought the outbreak under control. Spraying has begun in the Red River Valley.

MRS. DENNIS D. FOUT

Marriage vows exchanged by Miss Dorn and Mr. Fout

Miss Connie Sue Dorn and Dennis Dean Fout were united in marriage at 2:30 p.m. July 26 in the Newport Church of Christ in Christian Union. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lee Dorn of Rt. 1, South Solon, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fout of London.

The Rev. Gary Webb performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with two, nine-branched brass candelabras which held bouquets of purple, lilac and white asters, gladiolus, daisies, and babies breath. A brass kneeling bench was set before the altar and purple and lilac ribbons decorated the pews.

Mrs. Willis Bush, organist, and Mrs. Ed Banion, vocalist, presented the nuptial prelude.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a floor-length, A-line gown of white polyester crepe extending into a self-train. The bodice and back was styled with waistline tucks inserted with rose-sculptured lace, and white pearl buttons. The same lace edged the neckline and short puffed sleeves. Her floor-length mantilla of illusion was also edged with wide rose lace. Her dress and veil were made by Mrs. David Jackson of Mount Sterling, a friend of the family. She carried a cascade bouquet of miniature white carnations, baby's breath, ivy and accented with dried purple statice.

Mrs. George Burton, matron of honor, wore a deep purple floor-length dress of deluxe satin, with empire waist and an apron of lavender, green and white lace. She wore a purple picture hat and carried flowers in white straw basket.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Rick Hamby of Columbus, sister of the bride, Mrs. Gary Patterson of Dayton, and Miss Becky Harris of London. Their dresses were like the matron of honor except in lavender. They also wore lavender picture hats and carried baskets of flowers in deep purple.

Kim Storts of London was the flower girl. She wore a lavender dress designed like the other attendants and baby's breath and purple ribbon in her hair.

Best man was Mike Fout, a brother of the bridegroom. Serving as ushers were Buddy Earls of London, and Mike and Philip Dorn, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Dorn chose for her daughter's wedding a pink and white dress and jacket ensemble with white accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Fout wore a long sleeve dress and jacket ensemble of beige knit with orange, green and blue on a beige background. Her accessories were beige. She, too, wore an orchid corsage.

For the reception held in Madison Plains High School, a purple and lavender theme prevailed on the bride's table. The wedding cake was decorated with purple flowers and the base of the cake was encircled with fresh cut flowers and greenery. Hostesses were Mrs. Ralph Deyo of London; Mrs. Midge Morgan of Sedalia; Mrs. Mike Fout and Cheryl and Carole Fout of London. Rhonda Dorn, a cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book.

Grandmothers of the couple, Mrs. Lloyd Robinson of Greenville, Mrs. Russell Dorn of South Solon, and Mrs. William Fout of London, all wore carnation corsages.

When the couple left for the Smoky Mountains and Nashville, Tenn., the new Mrs. Fout was wearing an apricot pantsuit. She is a graduate of Madison Plains High School and the Ohio State School of Cosmetology. Her husband, a graduate of London High School, will enroll at Circleville Bible College in September. He is also employed at the Firestone Store in London.

Jeff DAR plans service Sunday

NEW PRE-NATAL CLASS SERIES

The fourth series of pre-natal classes at Fayette Memorial Hospital are scheduled to begin Tuesday, August 19, and continue weekly through September 23 according to Mrs. Mary Rowland, Obstetrics Nursing Supervisor at the hospital.

The classes, planned and taught by a committee of local physicians, hospital staff, County Health Department nurses and myself are designed to prepare parents for their first childbirth experience.

The classes will be conducted every Tuesday evening from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. at the hospital. A $5.00 donation is suggested if the couple would like to help with the cost of resources. Those who missed out in pre-registering through their local physicians office are still welcome to attend the sessions taught in the classroom in the hospital basement.

This first session taught by Mrs. Rowland will introduce couples to the series and outline fetal growth and development with slides prepared by Dr. K.K. Wong.

On August 26, Dr. Robert Heiny will lead a discussion on emotional support and preparation for the new baby. Mary Rowland will outline supplies needed for the hospital trip and introduce registration and financial payment policies of the hospital.

Foods needed for mother and baby will be covered in my slide presentation on September 2. A tour of the labor and delivery area will be included with a movie preview of an actual birth using breathing and relaxation exercises on September 9.

Cheryl Meddock will demonstrate newborn baby care and feeding on September 16 and Sue Maddux will explain postpartum care for the new mother and family planning on September 23.

Four of the classes will include instruction on breathing and relaxation techniques taught by hospital nursing staff Karen Fraley, Diane Inskeep and Cathy Anderson. The exercises are aimed to get the mother into condition for the "work" of labor. The mother learns to relax and concentrate only on breathing while the uterus is contracting. This conditioning enables the mother to better cope with labor and delivery. A husband or friend is urged to attend class along with the expectant mother to assist in checking breath control and learn how to give support during labor.

PACKRAT PANIC

A phone call warns you that guests are on their way. So you whirlwind through the house, picking up and cutting away — but where? For the dozenth time, you resolve to do something about those crowded closets.

Organizing storage areas to discover inner space may not be your favorite household job. But it can save you time, energy, and confusion. It makes housework easier because you can find things quickly without a search.

You may not even need to add storage space — just make better use of what you have now. Remember these basic points:

Store things at point of first use. Put often-used items in easy-to-reach places. The most convenient storage space is from knee height (about 26 inches above the floor) to shoulder or eye-level (about 58-60 inches above the floor). Put seldom used items in areas above or below these levels.

Store together things used together. If necessary, duplicate small items like scissors, thread, glue, staples, cellophane tape.

Put things where they are easy to see — where you don't have to move other items to reach them.

The packrat and procrastinator types have the most difficulty with storage problems. But even the person who keeps everything needs to occasionally take inventory and throw away items no longer useful or used.

The next step is to group together items used together. Then look at the storage space — decide what's good and what's bad about it. Make a storage plan thinking about reachable, flexible space for every item.

Gadgets can improve some areas such as very deep drawers or very deep cabinets. These are problem areas because you stack things on top of each other, then rummage to find what's needed. Use rollout trays to improve deep cabinets; racks and hooks on the doors may help, too. Use drawer dividers and trays in deep drawers.

Finding more space in storage areas brings rewards of time and energy saved. And who knows? It may even improve family dispositions and teach the kids to put their toys away!

Engaged

Thomas Darst of the Dawson-Yankee town Rd., has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of his daughter, Bonnie Jo, to Robert L. Funk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Funk, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling. Their wedding will be an event of Sept. 20.

City board balances class loads

Elementary students who reside in the Sunnyside Elementary School area and attended Eastside Elementary School last year will be bused to various local schools this fall in an attempt to equalize teaching loads, the Washington C. H. Board of Education reported Monday.

Lewis Parrett, elementary coordinator for the city schools, said the students to be affected were those residing in the area bounded by the middle of S. Fayette Street to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co. tracks to the southeast boundaries of the city including the newly-acquired Robinson Road Trailer Court but excluding 1310 S. Elm St.

Kindergarten and first grade pupils will be transferred to Belle-Aire Elementary instead of Eastside, second and third graders will remain at Eastside and fourth and fifth grade students will be assigned to Rose Avenue Elementary School.

Parrett reported without the transfer, the first grade enrollments, with three teachers at each school would be 101 at Eastside and 65 at Belle-Aire. With the transfer, the enrollments would be equalized to 85 at Eastside and 81 at Belle-Aire.

With the transfer of fourth and fifth graders to Rose Avenue, the board stated the move would eliminate the need for the dual-grade teaching assignment at Rose Avenue.

Parrett stated he had received some strong objections from parents of fourth graders who have been transferred from school to school since the first grade.

Parrett also noted the opening and closing times of the elementary schools will be staggered due to bus scheduling with the transfer of the students through busing. Eastside School will begin at 8:45 a.m. and end at 3:30 p.m.; Cherry Hill and Rose Avenue will begin at 9 a.m. and end at 3:45 p.m.; and Belle-Aire will start at 9:15 a.m. and close at 4 p.m.

IN OTHER business the board:

— discussed the pending Senate Bill 170 which mandates state aid to schools and minimum salary schedules and will go into effect 90 days after Gov. James A. Rhodes signs the bill;

— employed four teachers on one-year contracts: Miss Charlene Laslie (graduate of Georgetown College, Ky., first year teacher) as senior high French teacher; Dave A. Young (graduate Ohio State University with degree in English, journalism and social studies, 10 years experience, formerly at Mechanicsburg High School) to teach senior high English and social studies; Mrs. Patricia Moss as senior high school home economics with one month extended service; Miss

Christi Brown as sixth grade teacher at Washington Middle School; and Carmen Frogale as senior high occupational work experience coordinator;

— accepted resignations of Miss Helga Doppleb, home economics teacher at senior high school; Mrs. Nancy Gill as senior high school French teacher; Mrs. Louise Townsend, second grade teacher at Eastside Elementary School; and Harry Townsend as senior high school occupational work experience coordinator;

— employed Mrs. Virginia Dixon for 1975-76 school year lunchroom employee on five hours daily work schedule and also assist with band camp food service the week of August 18-23;

— renewed bus insurance policy with Bob Lewis Insurance at an increase of $52 for the year;

— reported a total of $1,086.75 was realized from July 19 auction of used school furniture and kitchen equipment;

— employed 23 substitute teachers and tutors for the 1975-76 school year: Mrs. Donna Kelley, Paul Metzger, Mrs. Helen Perrill, Mrs. Helene Sanderson, Mrs. Mary Chapman, Mrs. Dorothy Everhart, Halley Berisford, Mrs. Linda Cramer, Mrs. Linda Toler, Mrs. Louise Townsend, Mrs. Susan Stuckey, Mrs. Beverly Loudner, Mrs. Mary Lou Williams, Mrs. Hazel Bidwell, Mrs. Fern Miller, Mrs. Joyce Zimmerman, Mrs. Edna Watts, Mrs. Linda Polson, Miss Linda Dobbins, Mrs. Maureen Warner, Mrs. Mary Bell Garringer, Mrs. Barbara Ragland (tutoring) and Mrs. Marsha Elberfeld (tutoring) at $22.50 per day for substitutes, ¼ an hour for regular tutors and $5 an hour for learning disabilities instructors; — approved a tentative plan to employ a learning disabilities supervisor for Washington C. H., Miami Trace, Greenfield, and Fairfield Districts with Washington C.H.'s share as $288 per year;

— granted request by John Jackson for rental of auditorium for a gospel concert Sept. 16 at a cost of $100, and Lawson Post of American Legion rent the lunchroom area same night at rental fee of $15;

— approved board policy book which has been revised and updated;

— agreed to reimburse two teachers for completion of college courses;

— approved two buses for transporting high school band members to Ohio State Fair Aug. 21 for observing other bands in competition, with transportation costs paid by band boosters;

— granted admission of Douglas McCune, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland McCune Jr., 733 Staunton-Sugar Grove

Road, as tuition student at Washington High School;

— adopted two textbooks for senior high English mythology course;

— stated their disapproval of lowering age limit from 17 years to 13 for operating pin ball machines within city limits and recommended advising city council chairman of such opinion;

— voted to investigate the approximate 70 per cent increase in Oasis Trust Insurance premium rates for supplemental coverage for teachers;

— agreed to meet on regular board meeting date, Labor day;

— approved professional meeting expenses for two teachers attending conferences;

— approved tuition rate for 1975-76 at $42.70 per month, a decrease of 56 cents per month from last year's rate;

— noted the board has received approval of the 1975-76 Title I project in amount of $53,795.03 with Mrs. Fred Domenico as head teacher. Other title I teachers are Mrs. Frances Tye, Mrs. Marian Robinson (half-time), Mrs. Delores Strickling, Miss Sharon Shuller, and Jackie Loudner (half-time).

— approved use of stadium for six Saturday nights beginning Sept. 20 for pony league realizing Oct. 4 is Community Education Offside game and pony league will be moved to Oct. 5; — approved two-week extended service for Miss Helen Hutson, yearbook advisor at high school, for work on yearbook due to court case;

— noted James Kiger, attorney hired by board in case of McClung vs. Washington C. H. Board of Education, had received certification statement of appeals court and believed the Supreme Court would accept the case for consideration;

— noted first day of school is Sept. 2 for students and Aug. 28 for teachers;

— recognized Roy Shipley was unintentionally omitted from the bus drivers re-employed at last meeting; — approved the free lunch policy in compliance with federal funding requirements;

— awarded bids for active and interim funds to the three local banks, Fayette County Bank, Huntington Bank of Washington C. H. and First National Bank; — and noted that due to some schools not being represented on the Great Oaks Vocational School Board of Education, the board was advised Clermont and Highland counties were replaced by local school representatives in the 33 districts.

See no motive in cycle slaying

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — No firm motive has been developed in the shotgun slaying of an Ohio "Hell's Angels" motorcyclist last Thursday on I-80 near Colfax, says the assistant director of the Iowa Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

Warren D. Stump said Monday that while he had six officers working on the case, "it's hard unless somebody has something. The only thing you can do is to get all the possibilities."

James M. Bailey, 32, of Mentor, Ohio, was shot from an overpass while riding west on I-80 near Colfax with two companions en route to a motorcycle rally in South Dakota.

Collegiate hopefuls spend time on familiar grounds

Not that the Miami Trace football team won't be a South Central Ohio League title contender again this year with the talent on hand, but head coach Fred Zechman would have less to worry about if several of the players working out with the Panthers this last week were sticking around for a game or two.

Nine former Panther grid standouts have been running through conditioning drills with the Miami Trace squad this summer in preparation for their own football programs in college.

The nine collegiate hopefuls, Tom Riley, Jeff Sagar, Jay Mossbarger, Pete Jones, Jeff Spears, Steve Warnock, Jay Waddle, Gardner Cobb and Tom Reisinger, left this week for their grid programs at various colleges in Kentucky and Ohio.

The tri-captains of last season's SCOL co-champions Panther squad will be teammates again this year wearing Capital Crusader uniforms. Riley, Sagar and Mossbarger will be joining one of Ohio's most successful college grid programs.

Captain has compiled a 67-47-2 mark

under head coach Gene Slaughter, who will begin his 15th season at the Crusaders helm this fall coming off last year's 5-4 record.

The three all-Ohio selections have their work cut out for them as 39 let-terms including nine defensive and seven offensive starters return to the Crusaders this fall.

Ninty-five gridders including 45 freshmen are expected to be on the field when the Crusaders open two-a-day practices Thursday.

The Capital coaching staff is reportedly pleased with the additions of Riley, Sagar and Mossbarger. Although it is too early to tell what positions the three will end up playing, the Capital coaches have seen game films, and have Sagar and Riley tabbed as running backs while Mossbarger is expected to remain at defensive end.

Another member of last season's SCOL co-champion squad, Tom Reisinger, will hopefully be seeing some action this season at Otterbein College.

Reisinger also has to contend with a large number of returning lettermen as first-year coach Rich Seills has 14 starters returning and 99 prospective gridders on the pre-season roster.

Reisinger, who anchored the Panthers offensive line last season, is listed as a 6'1", 195-pound center. He will be one of 39 freshmen trying to secure a berth on Otterbein's traveling squad when the college opens its season September 13 at Manchester College in Indiana.

Otterbein was 6-3 last season and finished second in their league behind Baldwin-Wallace.

The other ex-Panthers know a little more of what to expect as fall practice begins, because they have been through the collegiate training camps in previous years.

Jay Waddle enters his final year as the mainstay of Murray State

NO LONGER PANTHERS — Five of the nine former Miami Trace gridders, who went through preseason conditioning drills with the Panthers, got together before a scheduled afternoon workout at the school last week. From left to right are: Tom Riley and Jay Mossbarger, both headed for Capital University; Gardner Cobb, a University of Cincinnati griddier; and Pete Jones and Jeff Spears, who are gridders at Morehead State University.

University's defensive line. He is not only prized as an awesome tackle but also as a team leader. He was picked as the Racers lone captain this year.

Waddle accounted for 65 solo tackles and 59 assists during Murray states 9-2 season last year. The 6'2", 220 pounder's totals were the most ever record by a tackle at the University.

The 1971 Miami Trace grad will be one of 17 returning starters expected to open the season at home in new Stewart Stadium against Western Carolina on September 20.

Another Kentucky University has a Panther look to it as Steve Warnock, Jeff Spears and Pete Jones suit up for the Morehead state grid team this week.

Former Panther coach Roy Lucas lured the three south to play for him at Morehead, and the three are expected to see considerable action September 30 in the season opener against Marshall.

Spears is a returning letterman and is slated to start at split end. The 5'9", 170 pounder showed his stuff in last springs inter-squad game by hauling down a touchdown pass.

Warnock, a 6'1", 220-pound tackle, is currently a second stringer, while Jones is rated as a third team quarterback before summer drills started.

Jones and Spears are sophomores and Warnock is listed as a junior.

Gardner Cobb will be in a University of Cincinnati uniform again this season. He has been working out with weights all summer and will be trying to return to offensive tackle duties after undergoing knee surgery.

The 6'2", 240-pound muscular tackle is listed as a junior on the Bearcat squad this season.

So the former standouts have all left the younger Panthers and are on their way to college, but the nine would have been a heck of a fine bunch to build a high school team around; even a college team.

"Eat your heart out, Raquel."

"Boy, do I love those cutie pies at the bank. They passed up all those gorgeous gals, and picked me to be their spokeswoman. Aren't they sweet. I could just hug them. But first I got some big news for you. There are now more than 80 Huntington banking offices all over Ohio. Gosh, you can travel almost anywhere in the state and a Huntington Bank will be there to cheer you up, you lucky stiffs. And a Handy-Bank may be there so you can get your hands on some cold cash. Boy, do I love cold cash. Maybe I'll go on a trip myself."

Controlling High Blood Pressure

Can high blood pressure be caused by eating too much red meat?

Mrs. E. T., N. C.

Dear Mrs. T.: At the turn of the century, long before there was much knowledge of high blood pressure, red meat was arbitrarily blamed. Kidney disease, too, was attributed to red meat.

Even though this idea was medically and scientifically disproved long ago, the myth still persists.

There are many more important limitations imposed on people who have high blood pressure. Today, with diets, drugs and the removal of stressful situations, many cases of hypertension (high blood pressure) can be kept within normal limits.

More and more effort is being made to find early cases of high blood pressure. In this way, the condition can be controlled and complications prevented.

Almost every month, during my menstrual periods, I have one day of pain in my lower abdomen. It lasts for a day and then goes away. Can you explain this?

Miss R. V., Ill.

Dear Miss V.: The condition you describe may be "mittel-schmerz," a

German word meaning, "middle pain."

It describes the pain that some women feel in the lower abdomen, midway during their menstrual period.

This pain may coincide with the ovulation period, or the time when an egg is discharged from the ovary.

My first child was born with pyloric stenosis. Is there a possibility that my next one will have it, too?

Mrs. G. J., Vt.

Dear Mrs. J.: Newborn babies occasionally have a powerful muscle that interferes with the passage of food from the stomach into the intestines.

This is not a hereditary condition. The diagnosis is made at birth, or shortly afterwards.

If the condition cannot be controlled with drugs, surgery is performed. The operation takes a few minutes. Once the operation is over, children usually proceed to grow and develop normally.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism: A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers helpful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF FAYETTE COUNTY, OHIO

Harold A. Hise, County Treasurer of Fayette County, Ohio, Plaintiff, vs.

Russell Hawkins, Administrator of the Estate of Elizabeth Hawkins, et al., Defendants.

Case No. CI-75-196
NOTICE TO BE PUBLISHED
Emma May, Orville Hawkins, Arthur R. Hawkins, Minnie M. Richards, Albert O. Hawkins, James E. Cremins, Mary Allen Cope, and Richard L. Cremins, and their unknown heirs, devisees, assigns and personal representatives, whose residences are unknown will take notice that on the 25th day of July, 1975, Harold A. So what's new? Maybe you've seen on TV the Kodak commercials about the new Kodak Tele-Instamatic camera.

Click, you've got the entire scene, and flick, you've moved in the telephoto lens for a telephoto shot. For the guy who always wanted to shoot telephoto but was reluctant to shell out four hundred bucks for the SLR route, this is an answer. This "click, flick" thing answers to the name, Kodak Tele-Instamatic 608, and right now our price for the thing is $25.95. You may want to come in and get one. Oh, yes, it also uses the new FLIPLASH.

So what else is new? Well, more and more of our friends are just thrilled to pieces with the beautiful wall prints they are getting made from their favorite slides or negatives through a new custom lab we've discovered. How would a beautifully mounted 16x20 color print look on your wall made from that favorite slide of yours? Man, you wouldn't believe what beautiful work this lab does. That's something you should think about.

Many of our friends are also debating about going the super 8 sound movie route. Let's face it, in the hands of a dud this sound movie thing is ludicrous, but many of our friends are doing a great job with Ektasound. We've been shooting sound movies for 25 years and we've had lots of fun, from the old days of the 202 on 16 mm through regular 8 sound stuff and now with the Ektasound system. Maybe we can help you to a lot of fun with sound movies. Come in and ask questions.

It looks now like classes will start at CKFN about the second week of September. If you're interested you may want to come in and check.

Theft from vehicle checked by police

Three larcenies and a personal injury were reported by Washington C.H. police today. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported an incident of property destruction and a personal injury.

The wing vent on a van belonging to Donald D. Ellerbrock, 309 1/2 N. Hinde St., was smashed and several items stolen from the vehicle, including a $25 circular saw, a $20 drill, a $50 scroller automatic saw, a $74 socket and wrench set, drill bits valued at $18, a $21 level, a $9 hammer, a $10 cross-hand saw, a $7 pop rivet gun and a $12 wood chisel. The theft took place sometime between 11 p.m. Wednesday and 6 a.m. Thursday. Police reported the incident today because Ellerbrock was summoned out of town after the incident and was not able to file the report until he returned.

A vacuum cleaner valued at $136.75 and owned by the Electrolux Corp., Cincinnati, was stolen from the Joyce A. Pierce home, 503 East St., sometime Friday. Police are investigating.

Tools valued at $45 and two quarters of motor oil were stolen from a car belonging to Beryl Pierce, 860 Kohler Dr., between 11:50 p.m. Saturday and 8:30 a.m. Monday, police reported.

Carrie A. Acton, 14 months, 213 Bereman St., was injured when dropped by her three-year-old brother who was carrying her at 3:30 p.m. Sunday. The child was admitted to Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Pearl Campbell, 52, Columbus, sustained an injured right knee at Deer Creek at 5:50 p.m. Monday when she fell down an embankment. The woman was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital, sheriff's deputies reported.

A 10-year-old Fayette County girl and a 14-year-old Fayette County boy were apprehended by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department for allegedly writing obscene words on a truck belonging to Homer Smith, Bogus Road, putting trash in the gas tank, driving nails into the tires, damaging his turtle traps and fence gate and emptying dirt on his picnic table.

The children have been released to their parents, sheriff's deputies reported.

Greenfield women arrested after downtown disturbance

Two Greenfield women are presently incarcerated in the Fayette County jail because of a disorderly conduct charge filed against them by Washington C.H. police early Tuesday morning.

Washington C.H. Police Ptl. Mike Stritenberger reported he heard loud argumentative voices coming from the Emerald Inn, S. Fayette Street, at 2:01 a.m. Tuesday and went in to investigate, accompanied by auxiliary officer John R. Bane. They discovered two women in the basement of the tavern and asked them to come out. One woman, Rita K. Fridley, 22, Greenfield, became violent and abusive and used profane language toward the two police officers. Ms. Fridley then attempted to flee upstairs and tried to strike Ptl. Stritenberger with a bar stool. She was subdued and taken to the awaiting police cruiser outside the bar.

Washington C.H. Ptl. Larry Mongold arrived on the scene and questioned Ptl. Stritenberger and Bane whether or not they needed assistance. While doing so, the other woman, Katherine S. Simmons, 23, Greenfield, became loud and abusive toward Ms. Fridley as she sat in the cruiser and was also placed under arrest.

Ms. Fridley is charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest and is incarcerated in lieu of $850 bond and Ms. Simmons is charged with disorderly conduct and is incarcerated in lieu of $100 bond.

Tree, auto fires doused by firemen

Washington C.H. firemen extinguished two fires Monday.

Three small boys playing with matches set a junk car on fire at Jones' Marathon service station, 1404 N. North St., at 6:40 p.m. Monday. Washington C.H. firemen extinguished the blaze with water and reported the auto owned by Clarence Jones, 220 Belle Ave.

A tree was set afire at 11:47 a.m. Monday by Ralph Seslar, 3385 Ohio 41-N, who was attempting to burn out a diseased section of the tree, according to Washington C.H. firemen who were summoned to the blaze.

Driver charged in city mishap

A Greenfield woman was charged with recklessness after an accident Monday morning, Washington C.H. police reported today along with a second traffic mishap. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a minor accident on private property in the county Monday.

A car driven by Lucy M. McElwain, 87, Greenfield, struck a parked car belonging to Carleta L. Smith, 3968 Camp Grove Rd., as she attempted to park alongside the Smith auto on E. Market Street at 10:10 a.m. Monday. Damage was moderate and police cited Ms. McElwain for reckless operation.

Cars driven by Roxa S. Dilley, 16, of 836 Maple St. and Diana F. Ford, 18, Bogus Road, collided at the Bonded service station, corner of North and Market streets, at 3:50 p.m. Monday, police reported.

A car driven by Willard J. Mitchell Jr., 31, of 728 Eastern Ave., struck a fence belonging to David C. Seymour, 1430 Pearl St., Friday evening, while traveling on a private lane, Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported today.

Judge presented huge hot dog

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The adage "you are what you eat" may apply to Municipal Court Judge Maurice Niehaus after a gag ceremony Monday.

The city prosecutor's office honored the judge with "The Order of The Hot Dog" following his decision last week that vendors could sell food on downtown's Fountain Square.

The honor entitled Niehaus to "all the rights and privileges of the order" and required him to wear a badge reading "Pick a pair of plump ones."

The judge also was presented with a three-foot hot dog.

Report on county fair given at Kiwanis Club

A report on ticket sales at the Fayette County Fair was heard by members of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club at the regular monthly board of directors meeting Monday night in the Lafayette Inn.

George Gibbs, chairman of the Kiwanis Club's fair committee, said paid admissions at the 1975 Fayette County Fair totaled 24,000 as compared with 24,304 in 1974.

However, Gibbs said money paid totaled $23,695.50 this year as compared with $23,300 in 1974. Gibbs said more children attended the fair in 1974 than in 1975, but more cars paid to park inside the fairgrounds in 1975.

Kiwanis Club members and their wives worked a total of 472 1/2 hours during the week of the county fair. Gibbs expressed his appreciation to all members for their cooperation.

Fred Taylor, head basketball coach at Ohio State University, will be the featured speaker at the next regular Kiwanis Club meeting on Monday, Aug. 25.

Kiwanis Club president Guy M.

Foster said because of the tremendous amount of interest in Ohio State basketball in Washington C.H., club members have decided to extend invitations to the general public to attend the meeting.

The meeting will be held in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds with dinner to be served at 6:15 p.m.

Reservations must be completed no later than Friday, Aug. 22. The cost for dinner is $3.50 per person and must be paid in advance. Reservations may be made by calling George Lundberg, 619 Albin Ave., at 335-1319 before Friday.

The Rev. Richard Ward was welcomed into the club as a transfer member from Sidney. Rev. Ward is a retired Methodist minister now residing in Washington C.H. with his wife, Avis.

In other matters, bills in the amount of $604.10 were approved for payment and Harold Heckaman was presented a nine-year attendance pin by Richard Maddux.

Two striking unions close Mead plant here

Local workers honoring pickets for 'health and safety reasons'

By ED SUMMERS

Operations at the Mead Containers Corp. plant in Washington C.H.'s Industrial Park were halted Tuesday morning by picketers from two striking unions at the Mead Corporation facility in Chillicothe.

Wendell Nichols, president of Local 1070, representing approximately 100 workers at the Washington C.H. plant, emphasized that employees here were not on strike. "We are not crossing the picket lines because of health and safety reasons," he explained. Nichols said Washington C.H. workers would gladly return to their jobs if the company would take action to remove the picket lines.

"The management told me it was our (the union) responsibility to have the pickets removed," Nichols commented, indicating the local union would take no such action.

Only management and supervisory personnel remained on the job at the Washington C.H. plant Tuesday morning.

Members of the Local 1070 said they had no advance warning or communications with the two striking unions, Local 731 and Local 988 of United Paper Workers International Union, before pickets were placed at the Washington C.H. plant. Workers said the picket lines had been established when they arrived at the plant at 6 a.m. Tuesday.

Washington C.H. plant manager Joe Rourke declined to comment on the situation.

The Washington C.H. plant, located on Kenskill Avenue, produces corrugated packaging cartons for industrial users.

Union members maintaining the picket lines said they were not stopping any vehicles from entering the plant but were asking the local workers to honor the picket line. "We are not here to cause any trouble," one of the picketers commented.

The major issue of the strike which has idled 2,500 workers at the Chillicothe plant and employees at the Escanaba, Mich., plant is a proposed reduction in the company pension plan.

According to union officials, the company is requesting a change in the pension plan so that a retired person will not be paid on a percentage basis, but on a fixed level. They claim the proposed change would cost a retired worker with 35 years of service $200 per month in pension payments.

Mead said increased wages and operating costs have driven the cost of pensions upward in the last few years to the point where a retired worker with social security and a working spouse would be making more off the job than on.

The strike at the Chillicothe plant began at midnight Monday, ten days after the contract expired.

MEAD PICKET LINE — Monty Arledge and James McBrayer, both of Chillicothe and members of Local 731, man a picket line near the entrance to the Mead Containers Corp. plant in the city's industrial park. Members of the two striking Chillicothe unions were manning the lines here which were being honored by employees here Tuesday because of "health and safety reasons."

One case ignored

Grand jury returns eight indictments

A total of eight indictments were returned Monday by the Fayette County grand jury against four Washington C. H. area residents.

Nine cases were presented to the grand jury by Fayette County prosecuting attorney James A. Kiger and assistant prosecutor John H. Roszmann. One case was ignored.

Donald P. Foxworth Jr., 19, of 703 Church St., was indicted on five counts of aggravated burglary. Foxworth was arrested by Washington C. H. police officers early Aug. 4 following a series of burglaries on the city's east side. He is charged with burglaries at the residences of Harold Speelman, 853 Church St., Robert Munn, 1220 Cornell Dr., John Morris, 793 McLean St., Charles S. Sheppard, 824 Church St., and Glenn Baker, 6 Winnipeg Plaza.

Craig F. Stewart, 23, Rt. 6, was indicted on a felonious assault charge stemming from an incident at Fayette Memorial Hospital on July 25. Stewart allegedly entered the emergency room of Fayette Memorial Hospital and struck Dr. Richard L. Sartini, Cincinnati, fracturing the physician's nose.

Gary A. Frye, 21, of 710 E. Paint St., was indicted for obstruction of justice in connection with the arrest of Calvin M. Justice, 21, Xenia, on a drug charge. Frye was arrested July 3 by Washington C. H. police officers.

Frye allegedly told police officers he had no idea of the whereabouts of Justice who was found minutes later hiding on the floorboard of Frye's automobile.

Robert A. Merriman, 23, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, was indicted for receiving stolen property. He is charged with possession of a tape recorder and a .22-caliber pistol and holster stolen from the Keith Higgins residence, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville.

Four witnesses testified before the jury.

million budget could not afford any lawsuits for a loss.

John Briley, assistant council director, said the paintings wouldn't be shown again until Brown changes his opinion or the legislature passes a law covering the council for such displays.

Ohio departments do not buy insurance because the state has a law requiring self-insurance, Briley said. The council had nevertheless insured the paintings last year for $50,000, costing it $688.

The value of the works range from $150 for a painting entitled "I Met Them at Their Door" to $10,000 for one of a famed Ohio Civil War family entitled, "The Fighting McCooks."

Paintings removed in dispute

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Because the Ohio Arts Council can't legally get insurance, paintings that decorated the walls of Gov. James A. Rhodes' office complex and the House of Representatives have been removed.

The council had obtained the paintings from galleries around the state. Paintings on display in the governor's office area had been there three years. The House paintings were changed every two months over the past five years.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown, in an opinion sought by the council, said that state agencies are prohibited from purchasing liability insurance to cover theft or damage. The council said its $1

Principal Ben Roby has also announced times when regular students can obtain their new schedules.

Sixth graders can pick up their schedules at 9:30 a.m. Monday, Aug. 25 in the Middle School auditorium.

Schedules for seventh graders will be distributed at 1:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 25. The seventh graders should also report to the auditorium.

Eighth graders can obtain their new schedules from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the principal's office in the Middle School building.

THE CLASS of 1950 of Washington High School is planning a carry-in picnic at the shelter house in Eyman Park at noon Sunday. All class members and their families are invited to attend. Persons with questions regarding the get-together may call Mrs. Jon Ervin (426-6486).

choice but to recommend to Congress an additional $2 billion to $3 billion for strategic weapons programs in the current and coming fiscal years," the President warned.

On other subjects, the President said:

"Any reckless congressional action to cripple the effectiveness of our intelligence services in legitimate operations would be catastrophic." But he said, "I do not condone improper activities or violation of the constitutional rights of Americans by any personnel or agency of the federal government."

—He is troubled by Congress' refusal to permit shipment of arms to Turkey but added "I know that when the bottom line of any issue is the ultimate security of the United States, the Congress and the President have always found the way to close the ranks and act as one."

The President started today with an early breakfast meeting with newspaper and broadcasting executives from Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri.

CTA still 'dissatisfied'

City teachers receive base salary increases

BY SANDY FOSSON

Approximately 50 city teachers attending Monday's meeting of the Washington C. H. City Board of Education in an attempt to adjust the teachers' salary schedules for the coming year were given little input as board members advised the group they had voted in closed session prior to the meeting to establish the salary at an $8,000 base over the present $7,350 minimum.

Edwin M. Nestor, superintendent of Washington C. H. schools, stated the board came to the $8,000 figure during a short meeting with members of an executive committee of the City Teachers Association.

He added the $8,000 minimum base is $600 above the minimum base set by Ohio Senate Bill No. 170, awaiting the signature of Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes for the bill to become law. The bill sets the teacher salary base at $7,400 beginning November, 1975, retroactive to September and increases to $7,900 in July, 1976.

The new salary schedules adopted by the board will increase the pay for a beginning teacher from $7,350 to $8,000 and the maximum pay for a teacher with a master's degree and 15 hours of doctoral work and 10 years experience from $13,105 to $14,264.

Nestor noted the board would again reopen discussion of the salary question next summer as is normal procedure by the board.

Walter E. (Gene) Bienz, president of the board, stated, "We have done what we felt we could do. We had so much money and that is all we feel we have (to allocate to salaries)."

Tom Gauldin, chairman of the public relations committee for the City Teachers Association and spokesman for the group, told board members the executive committee had hoped to reach a satisfactory agreement on an $8,350 base.

He charged the board with using salary monies to build up the board's surplus. Gauldin accused the board of taking "taxpayers' money and building it in savings" and continually increasing the source of income at the end of each year while the percentage of teacher salaries had decreased in proportion.

"We accept inflation has encouraged reductions in spending and increases in saving but we cannot accept those reductions in salaries," Gauldin read from a prepared statement. "We must report to the entire membership of our organization on the salary established by the board. If they are happy, we'll thank you, but I cannot recommend that as a positive action."

Gauldin added the CTA felt two rumors should be clarified: one, a circulating rumor of a teacher strike was totally unfounded and two, the school is not heading into a financial crisis.

Gauldin blamed the local news media for giving residents the idea that the school was in severe financial trouble by front page headlines declaring a deficit budget.

"Deficit budgets are routinely passed and adopted by the school boards," he said. "The schools are not in financial jeopardy. In fact," he added, "the city schools are so financially sound they have had carryover balances the past few years."

Following the meeting, Gauldin said while the CTA did not expect the board to take action and set the minimum at an $8,000 base, they were "still dissatisfied." He stated the surplus over the years had apparently been provided through funds set aside for salaries and Stewart Miller, a representative from the Ohio Education Association attending the meeting, advised the teachers organization to consider collective bargaining procedures.

Glenn may not back Gilligan or Metzenbaum for Senate

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, has hinted he may not support former Gov. John J. Gilligan or former Sen. Howard Metzenbaum if either receives the Democratic nomination for the Senate next year.

Glenn acknowledged that wounds received during intraparty battles last year still are raw. He refused to pledge support for either man, both of whom have been mentioned as Democratic opponents to Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, whose term expires.

Glenn, in an interview with the Dayton Journal-Herald, was asked if wounds from last year's party battles have healed.

"I don't know what you mean by the big wounds," Glenn replied.

He paused, then added: "Well, we've had very little contact since the election last year. I don't know, we'll see what happens next year. Who knows?"

Glenn paused again, then said: "I take back what I said. I know what you mean about the big wounds—I've got them all over me."

Glenn's dispute with Gilligan and Metzenbaum began last year when Gilligan, favoring Metzenbaum, tried to dissuade the former astronaut from running for the Senate.

The split widened later when former Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, resigned his seat to become attorney general. Gilligan, then governor, named Metzenbaum to fill out the term while at the same time arranging for the Democratic party to endorse Metzenbaum in the 1974 primary.

Glenn bolted and ran for the Democratic nomination without official party support. He defeated Metzenbaum in the primary, then went on to defeat Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk for the seat.

The senator said he would remain neutral during the senatorial primary campaign. He said his staff has been instructed not to actively support any primary candidate.

Despite Glenn's avowed neutrality, however, the Journal-Herald said four of his campaign aides last year are active in the senatorial campaign of Rep. James V. Stanton, D-Ohio.

The newspaper identified the four as Stephen J. Kovacic, Glenn's chief strategist; Warren R. Baltimore, Glenn's deputy campaign director; Burt Schildhouse, a media consultant to Glenn's campaign, and Martin J. Sammon, Glenn's Cuyahoga County campaign chairman.

Sammon is Stanton's cousin.

At Ohio State Fair

Miss Grover Tamworth queen

Sixteen-year-old Cindi Grover will serve as the 1975 Ohio Tamworth swine queen during this year's Ohio State Fair in Columbus.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Grover, 2906 Parrott Station Road, Cindi will assist with the Tamworth swine show on August 26 and also participate in the "Queen of Queens" contest on August 31.

Cindi will be a junior at Miami Trace High School this fall. She participates in the high school band and the Folksingers group. She is a member of the Ambitious Farmers 4-H Club and is enrolled in swine and sheep projects.

In addition to her duties as Ohio's Tamworth queen, Cindi will be showing her Tamworth swine and Dorset sheep in the junior and senior divisions of the Ohio State Fair.

Mrs. Ethel Talbott

JAMESTOWN — Mrs. Ethel Evans Talbott, 86, of Jamestown, died Saturday evening in Providence Hospital, Cincinnati, where she had been a patient 11 days.

Born in Greene County, she was a member of the Jamestown Church of Christ and the Jamestown Grange. She is survived by a son, Neil Talbott, Jamestown; three daughters, Mrs. Alden (Donna) Johnston, and Mrs. Frank (Marie) Smith, both of Bowersville and Mrs. Eloise McManee of Jamestown; three brothers, Herbert and Adrian Evans of Washington C.H., and Otto Evans of Jamestown; 11 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her husband, Henson Talbott in 1967 and one son.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Powers Funeral Home, Jamestown, with Brother Gene Stinson officiating. Burial will be in Jamestown Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 until 9 p.m. tonight.

James O. Finley

JAMESTOWN — Funeral services for James Oscar Finley, 84, former resident of Jamestown, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Powers Funeral Home, Jamestown, with Brother Gene Stinson officiating.

Mr. Finley died at 5 a.m. Monday in the home of a daughter, Mrs. Wayne Pratter of West Lancaster.

A member of the Jamestown Church of Christ, he is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Mason (Elma) Bullock of California, Mrs. Paul (Helen) Klontz of Jamestown, Mrs. Pratter and Mrs. Robert (Martha) Severt, Union; four sons, Cecil of Springfield, Glenn, Wayne and Ernest, all of Xenia; 21 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. He was predeceased by his wife, Violet Anderson Finley, in 1957.

Burial will be in Jamestown Cemetery. Friends may call at the Powers Funeral Home from 3:30 to 5 and 7 until 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Ellis E. Bolton

SANFORD, Fla. — Ellis E. Bolton, 64, of Sanford, Fla., a former resident of Washington C.H. died at 11:30 a.m. Sunday in Seminole Memorial Hospital, Sanford, Fla. Mr. Bolton will be cremated and buried at sea.

A retired employee of the North American Rockwell Corp., Columbus, he is survived by his wife, Geraldine Jennings Bolton; a son, Jay and a daughter, Mrs. Jane Carpenter, both of Sanford, Fla.; three sisters and one brother.

Contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

(The funeral home incorrectly gave Mr. Bolton's name as Ellis Fulton in an obituary carried in Monday's Record-Herald).

MRS. WILLIAM TRUB — Requiem mass was sung for Mrs. Loretta Trub, 75, wife of William Trub, of 627 McArthur Way, by the Rev. Father Richard J. Connelly at 9:30 a.m. Monday in St. Colman's Catholic Church. Mrs. Trub died Friday.

Dan VanDyke was the organist, Danny Rodgers the lector, and John Rhode, Jim McDonald, Phil and Danny Kimmett and Gary Fisher the servers.

Burial was made in the Gate of Heaven Cemetery near Montgomery. Arrangements for services were made under the direction of the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home.

San Francisco police on strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Snipers fired shots at a police station early today, less than 12 hours after policemen unpinned their badges and hoisted picket signs in a strike for more pay.

Striking policemen at the station abruptly left their picket lines after the shooting began and helped arrest three young men.

In an earlier incident, an angry motorist ran over two picketing policemen.

City officials have pledged that the strike will not lead to a reign of lawlessness.

More than 90 per cent of the 1,935-member force struck Monday afternoon after the San Francisco Board of Supervisors refused to meet pay hike demands by the 1,800-member Police Officers Association.

Picket lines immediately went up outside the city's nine police stations, including headquarters at the Hall of Justice.

Police reported two sniping incidents at the Ingleside station beginning at 1:25 a.m. Shots were fired from the San Francisco City College area and from a nearby construction firm.

Officers inside the station shut off all lights, and police picketing outside discarded their signs and joined in a

Kent attorney's life threatened

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The lead attorney in the trial seeking damages for those who were shot at Kent State University five years ago said he was warned today not to show up for his summation.

The attorney, Joseph Kelner, said the threat which came by telephone was the third he had received since last Friday.

He said the threats wouldn't prevent his giving the closing statements that are expected Wednesday or Thursday. "There's nothing you can do about it," he said of the threat. "It just goes to show there's a lot of nuts out there."

Court broadens abortion rights

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The right of a girl or a woman to have an abortion is strictly her own, says a federal appeals court. A wife doesn't have to ask her husband; a minor doesn't have to ask her parents.

In affirming the decision of U.S. District Court in Miami, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals declared two Florida abortion statutes unconstitutional.

One of the statutes protected the rights of a husband.

But the appeals court noted Monday that the statute dealt with the husband — not necessarily the fetus's father — and said:

"The rights of the husband, which arguably spring from his interest in the fetus, are of doubtful applicability in this case."

It added, however, that it may be paradoxical for the federal government to hold both that men have a right to beget and raise offspring and that women have a right to abort them.

"The state may secure the man's procreative rights by merely making unconsented abortion as grounds for divorce," it suggested.

"The man may then enter into a new marriage relationship and the state may thereby protect his procreative interests without infringing upon the former wife's right to abortion."

The appeals court said a minor's right to an abortion must be upheld because teen-age motherhood could seriously impair a girl's physical and psychological health.

"The magnitude of the minor's interest ... suggests that the developmental differences between adults and minors do not warrant denying constitutional protection to the minor's abortions," the appeals court said.

It said most girls would normally consult their parents, but it added that the decision would prevent a hostile set of parents from forbidding an abortion without considering the best interests of their daughter.

"The requirement of parental permission is unlikely to achieve the state's aim of insuring the preservation of the family," the court said. "If a minor's pregnancy has fractured the family structure, imposition of a parental prohibition of abortion cannot reasonably be expected to restore the family's viability as a unit."

Guaranteed pension hikes, full pay go to ex-judges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal judges now can look to retiring at full pay with guaranteed automatic pension increases to keep up with increases in the cost of living.

Pension immunity from inflation for the more than 600 federal judges is one effect of the pay-raise bill signed recently by President Ford and brings the federal bench to a par with a number of state courts.

The pay-raise measure affects judges' pensions because their retirement pay generally is defined as the full salary for their last post, court administrative officials say. Therefore, as basic pay for judges goes up under terms of the pay-raise bill, pensions for retired federal jurists also will increase.

The new law also provides pay raises for the vice president, members of Congress, Cabinet members and other top officials. But their pensions are calculated differently, and they don't retire at full pay.

All pay hikes under the new law will be keyed to rises in the consumer price index, which is used to measure changes in the cost of living. The pay raise this year could be as much as 8 per cent, although Ford, who must recommend the precise figure, has talked in terms of a 5 per cent raise.

Here is an example of how the law will work for federal judges:

A U.S. district judge now is paid $40,000 a year. A retired U.S. district judge also draws a $40,000 annual pension if the judge retired at age 65 or older.

If this year's cost-of-living pay raise turns out to be 5 per cent, the active district judge would get a $2,000 pay raise to $42,000. The retired judge also would get a $2,000 pension increase if the retired judge left the bench at age 70 after 10 years of service or at age 65 after 15 years service.

The pension and salary increases would be even larger for appellate judges, who earn $42,500, associate Supreme Court justices, who earn $60,000 and for the chief justice, who earns $62,500.

All judges who meet the retirement age requirements get full salary, but only those who meet the service requirements are eligible for the cost-of-living increases.

Court administrative officials say that based on past experience all but a few federal judges will draw the cost-of-living increase.

Woman gets prison term

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mary Lombardi, a 48-year-old school teacher accused of killing her son in a hospital emergency room, pleaded guilty to manslaughter on Monday.

She was sentenced to a term of 4 to 25 years.

Mrs. Lombardi was originally indicted in Franklin County Common Pleas Court for aggravated murder in the April 25 slaying of her 18-year-old son, Joseph Charles Lombardi.

Police said Lombardi was taken to the emergency room suffering from a drug overdose. At least a half-dozen witnesses saw the woman go behind a partition where her son lay strapped to a table.

Seconds later six shots split the quiet of the hospital and Mrs. Lombardi emerged from behind the curtain, a .22 caliber revolver clutched in her hand, witnesses told police.

No other injuries were reported.

The shots fired from the construction site were from a heavy-caliber rifle, Cannon said. No one was arrested in that incident.

Earlier, two striking policemen were hit by a car as they picketed outside the Mission station. Nonstriking police arrested Thomas Oxtien, 50, at a bar about midnight, said Sgt. James McCarthy. Neither officer was seriously injured, authorities said.

Chenault won't resign despite conviction

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Vice Mayor William Chenault, after pleading guilty to four counts of falsification of city records, said he will not resign his post.

Chenault, however, said he has not yet formulated further political plans. The Cincinnati Democrat's candidacy for reelection to Cincinnati City Council this fall was not endorsed by the local party.

Chenault said he was not "I can't tell you now." Chenault told newsman, "I'm sick about this whole thing, and I have to get over this before I make a decision."

"I trusted the wrong people," Chenault said, "I paid out to some individuals monies that were not listed on vouchers. The totals on the vouchers were correct. It's just that the figures to those individuals could not be justified."

3 East Germans flown to west by copter pilot

TRAUNSTEIN, West Germany (AP) — A wounded American helicopter pilot faces possible border violation charges for flying three East German refugees out of Communist Czechoslovakia under a hail of bullets, the Bavarian state border police said today.

A police spokesman said the American, Barry Meeker, 33, of Hartford, Conn., was under investigation for alleged illegal border crossing from West Germany into Austria initially, violation of foreign air space and filing a false flight plan. Meeker, according to police, reported on departing Munich-Riem Airport Sunday that he was making local flights.

Investigators also were trying to determine whether Meeker had flown similar escape missions in the past, the spokesman said.

Meeker, describing himself as a decorated Vietnam war veteran and former member of Special Forces, said friendship motivated him to take part in the perilous airborne escape.

He said he lifted out three members of an East German family, including two men and a 14-year-old girl who was shot in the leg.

But he said he was forced to leave behind an injured woman and a friend who had requested the rescue and "their fate is unknown."

"The two men with the family had already boarded and my friend actually threw the (wounded) girl into the helicopter," he said.

Then shots, apparently from a rifle equipped with telescopic sight, "came at intervals of about five to seven seconds," he said.

"Ahead of me was an elderly lady on the ground, obviously injured, and then suddenly bullets hit me right through said Monday the unions will refuse to handle the grain cargoes until the Ford administration guarantees that consumers are protected from higher prices and takes steps to provide more work for American seamen.

The boycott is being imposed at Great Lakes, Gulf and East Coast ports because the grain sales to the Soviet Union would "cost American consumers billions of dollars," Meany told newsmen in Washington.

The stop-work order came after the International Longshoremen's Association and five other AFL-CIO maritime unions last month threatened to boycott the new Soviet grain shipments.

There was no immediate reaction from Ford administration officials.

However, Gov. Robert F. Bennett of Kansas — the nation's biggest wheat-producing state — called the boycott "arrogant."

"The refusal of longshoremen to load American wheat on vessels bound for the Soviet Union is an ill-conceived grandstand play that could have tragic consequences for the wheat-producing Midwest and our entire nation," Bennett said.

The governor urged President Ford "to take quick and forceful action to see that the export of U. S. grain is not disrupted."

Board members of the Kansas Farm Bureau directed John Junior Armstrong, their president, to investigate the possibility of a $1-billion class action suit against the AFL-CIO and the International Longshoremen's Association.

"It's hard to believe that one man can bring economic havoc on American agriculture, but Meany did it," Armstrong said.

Meany said orders were issued Monday to stop handling grain on two ships in the Port of Houston until it can be determined whether the cargo involves new purchases or shipments under an earlier deal. Old purchases will be loaded, he said.

However, longshoremen in Houston continued to load grain bound for Russia. A spokesman for the AFL-CIO said later there apparently was a lag before the longshoremen received official orders not to load ships.

Citing rising prices for flour, wheat, corn and soybeans over the past month, Meany told a news conference the new grain purchases will "give the Russians an open door to our private grain market ... in a way that is going to cost the American consumer billions of dollars."

"The American housewife is still paying" for the 1972 grain deal which resulted in higher domestic prices, Meany said, asserting that "this is not going to happen again."

Meany suggested that any new grain purchases should be made on a government-to-government basis instead of permitting private industry to negotiate the sales.

The grain boycott affects ports on the East and Gulf coasts and the Great Lakes, where the longshoremen's union represents dock workers. West coast dock workers are represented by an independent union which has not joined the protest.

Periods of cloudiness were to cover the state today as showers and thundershowers to the west and south of Ohio move southeast.

The morning weather map was dominated by a large high pressure area. It extended from west of Hudson Bay, through the upper Great Lakes, to the upper Ohio Valley. It was to slide east and Ohio was not to receive the clear skies usually associated with large high pressure areas.

There was considerable cloudiness around the state during the night. In fact a few drops of rain even fell on northern counties around midnight.

The main effect of the cloudiness though was to hold temperatures 5 to 10 degrees higher than expected. Temperatures in the 50s were expected to be common by dawn. Instead only Marietta had fallen that low, and then only to 59 degrees.

the helicopter." He said the bullet pierced his elbow.

Meeker said the family was not at the pre-arranged meeting spot when he landed and "the whole affair was delayed. Instead of 10 seconds, as previously calculated, I had to remain almost two minutes on the ground. When the refugees arrived at the helicopter, I noticed that the girl was shot through her leg."

Fearing that the shots might ruin the entire mission, Meeker said he signalled his friend to leave the injured woman and come aboard.

"But he did not see me. When I heard another shot fired at the helicopter, I thought, 'Now you've got to get out of here fast, or else we've all had it.'"

"I took off, flying toward Munich at high altitude, but noticed very quickly that my fuel was running low. Having been a rescue pilot before, I knew my way to Traunstein hospital and had

Stock list declines

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined steadily today under the renewed influence of concern over inflation and rising interest rates.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 6.50 at 816.25, and losers outnumbered gainers by about a 5-3 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers noted that the market was contending with a further rise in some key short term money rates on Monday, as well as apprehension over the report due from the government on Thursday morning on the July consumer price index.

Trading remained light.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell .40 to 85.72.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .28 at 45.66.

Bronfman threatened with death

NEW YORK (AP) — The alleged kidnaper of whisky heir Samuel Bronfman 2nd planned the abduction months ago and threatened to kill him and his multimillionaire father unless a ransom demand was met quickly, the FBI says.

In a complaint filed Monday in U.S. District Court, the FBI said Mel Patrick Lynch, a New York City fireman, and Dominic Byrne, a limousine operator, admitted seizing the 21-year-old victim.

Rejecting a defense plea that the two were "amateurs involved in some kind of lark," U.S. Magistrate Martin D. Jacobs set $500,000 bail for Lynch and $200,000 for Byrne on a charge of extorting the $2.3-million ransom.

Later Monday, Westchester Dist. Atty. Carl Vergari said he would press state kidnapping charges against the two Irishborn Brooklynites because they had not taken their alleged captive across state lines, a necessary qualification for applying federal kidnap statutes.

Samuel was seized early August 9 sometime after he left the lavish Yorktown Heights estate of his father, Edgar, the head of the Seagram Company, Ltd., the world's largest distillers.

After a tense week of waiting and the delivery of the $2.3 million ransom, he was rescued unharmed Sunday by the FBI and city police from Lynch's Brooklyn apartment.

The ransom money was found under a bed in a nearby apartment.

In court, FBI special agent Joseph Conley said Lynch, described as the "prime mover" in the alleged plot, prepared the ransom letter to Edgar Bronfman sometime in June "demanding a ransom and further informing him he and his son would die if payment were not made as instructed."

Mars landing pushed back

BOSTON (AP) — The administrator of the U.S. space agency says chances are slim that a Viking spacecraft will land on Mars for the nation's bicentennial celebration of Independence Day, as has been long planned.

The original schedule called for an unmanned Viking to touch down on the Red Planet on July 4, 1976.

exactly the amount of fuel to reach it," he said.

The West German Foreign Ministry said it had received no diplomatic protest from Czechoslovakia.

There were reports that Meeker, a civilian flying instructor, had once served with the U.S. armed forces in West Germany.

He said his home town was "Hartford" but hospital officials abruptly cut off the interview before he could name the state.

German authorities gave no information about him or his passengers. Their identities and relationship to each other was not known.

Doctors said Meeker was satisfactory at the city hospital, 12 miles from the Austrian border. They reported his injuries on Monday and only then did Bavarian authorities learn of the flight.

Rainmaking questions

Cloud seeding to bring precipitation used to be fair game for jokesters. They had a lot of fun with the idea of kooky scientists functioning as would-be rainmakers, frequently without any perceptible effect on the weather.

The comic principle involved was a variant of the classic pratfall: the rainmakers were funny because they fell down a lot. This source of humor has about dried up, for the excellent reason that rainmaking — and snowmaking, too — has been perfected to the point of working more often than not.

All through the Great Plains and the West, now, computerized cloud seeding is under way to increase precipitation for various purposes, notably agriculture and hydroelectric projects. These days, in contrast to the time when cloud seeding was done at random, such enterprises benefit by accurate data about when cloud conditions are good for an infusion of silver or lead iodide crystals.

Figures on a five-year experiment in Nevada give some indication of how effective this can be. Scientists can now distinguish between ordinary snowflakes and those formed as a result of cloud seeding. They estimate that in storms brought on by cloud seeding the snowfall was 10 to 15 per cent heavier than normal.

The science of increasing precipitation has advanced, then, to the point where this can be done with reasonable assurance of success. This raises some questions: Might cloud seeding cause a flood, or adversely affect the weather outside the immediate area? Who should rightly determine when and where such weather modification can take place? As techniques improve, the need for answers to these and other pertinent questions will increase.

THESE DAYS ...By John Chamberlain

Portuguese won't succumb easily

The news from Portugal, as I write, is opaque. But with crowds in the northern part of the country storming and burning Communist headquarters, and with a position paper signed by moderate leaders of the armed forces circulating without immediate reprisal, it looks a bit hopeful that, somehow, the Soviets will be stopped short of imposing a complete proletarian dictatorship on a nation that has always been an integral part of the West.

The question is whether the Communist-backed Portuguese Premier, Vasco Gonçalves, will continue to go for broke in his effort to satelitize the country for Moscow, or whether he will reverse his engines and play it cool. In Catholic Spain, in the '30s, the Communists tried in the course of civil war to take over from the republicans and lost. The Italian and French Communists have had more sense; they at least pretend to play the parliamentary game. No one would expect the Portuguese Communists to live up to what has been advertised as the spirit of Helsinki if they think they have a chance of winning quickly. But the Kremlin may have its own thoughts on the matter; with the prospect of losing the strategic Azores Islands to a local separatist movement, Brezhnev might give Gonçalves the signal to compromise.

A friend who has spent some time in Portuguese Angola raises another important point. With three rival black factions slaughtering each other and the whites, too, in a hectic effort to dominate this last relic of Portugal's African empire when the day for "liberation" comes, Portuguese white settlers have been fleeing for their lives. What will happen when a quarter of a million anguished ex-colonials are suddenly dumped on their European homeland? They tend to be tough frontier types; many of them have made it a practice of keeping guns under their pillows when they go to bed. They have watched Angola squirm under the ravages provoked by Communists of both the Moscow and the Maoist variety. Moreover, they are furious because the left-dominated Lisbon government has let them down. They won't care to live in a Communist Portugal, and Gonçalves will have to deal with them.

An anti-Communist victory in Portugal would have a tremendously disruptive effect all over Western Europe. But even if it should come to pass, it would be a commentary on the West's essentially defensive psychology. We call it a great victory when, as in Chile, we save something that already belongs to us. Meanwhile we lose Vietnam, Mozambique and Angola to anti-Western and pro-Communist groups.

Back in 1965 Benjamin Lippincott, who taught Hubert Humphrey political science at the University of Minnesota, wrote a book called "Democracy's Dilemma: The Totalitarian Party in a Free Society." Professor Lippincott convinced Humphrey that Communists everywhere are unwilling to play by the rules of the democratic multi-party game. But if Humphrey was disposed to listen to his teacher, the rest of the American liberals were not. They sabotaged Lippincott's book.

I've been reading the book again, and find it absolutely persuasive. The nations of the West are crazy if they think Communists can be trusted to take part in democratic governments. The Communists don't believe that democratic rights imply democratic duties.

Portugal is a living demonstration of what happens when a minority Communist group, by virtue of its penetration into the military forces, thinks it has a chance of taking over against the majority. The Portuguese Communists may be beaten back this time. But the Lippincott "dilemma" will remain. The West, if it intends to live free, must go over to the offensive and get rid of its totalitarian infiltrators.

Cleveland costliest in Midwest

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Federal statistics show that transportation, housing and personal care costs continue to make Cleveland the most expensive place to live in the Midwest.

Cleveland and Buffalo are the most expensive cities to live in for retired couples in lowest incomes for cities between Washington and San Francisco, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. Buffalo was more expensive than Cleveland.

It cost a retired Cleveland couple with the lowest budget about $4,365 a year to pay for health and decency, the figures show. This is from $86 to $345 more than any other major Midwest city.

The study breaks down retired couples into low, medium and high budgets. This represents what it would cost those couples to maintain their lifestyles and wants.

The medium budget in Cleveland of $6,260 a year was highest by $33 to $544 over other Midwest cities. Cleveland's higher budget of $9,177 was second to Detroit's $9,489.

The budgets were figured for August 1974.

The bureau also reported the costs of owning a house in Cleveland were the highest in the Midwest for retired couples on low and intermediate budgets and second to Detroit for couples on higher budgets.

Malpractice plan gets jump

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's new program to offer medical malpractice insurance to doctors and hospitals unable to get it elsewhere had a built-in advantage.

Insurance Director Harry V. Jump moved quickly to set it up in the offices of the already-existing Ohio FAIR plan.

FAIR stands for Fair Access to Insurance Requirements, a program established in 1968 when big city riots made it virtually impossible for many urban property owners to get insurance in the private market.

FAIR, like the new Ohio Medical Professional Liability Insurance Association, operates around a shared, risk pool that requires the participation of insurance companies licensed in Ohio.

Richard Fogo, administrator of the FAIR plan, apparently also will function as manager of the new association under a contract that will have the two groups share facilities, staff and expenses.

Fogo said the board of governors of the malpractice association will meet today in Columbus to firm up most of the details. FAIR has a staff of about two dozen, including two clerical employees added recently when the association began writing malpractice policies.

Fogo said it was not possible to put a dollar amount on administrative savings hoped to be realized by the dual functions of his office. But, he pointed out that some other comparable states, including Indiana and Wisconsin, contracted their malpractice programs out to private firms which require profit margins, including agents' commissions that run as high as 30 per cent.

Both Ohio plans are nonprofit. FAIR limits commissions to 10 per cent, while the law that created the association calls for 5 per cent with the top for any single policy set at $150.

It was expected, when the FAIR plan was created, that it would be only a temporary provider of insurance and that, eventually, private industry would move back into the market. However, it continues to write about 20,000 policies a year, said Frederick Hill, FAIR's campaign manager.

He noted that the malpractice association, under law, is scheduled to go out of existence Dec. 31, 1978. However, the law contains various reform, including continuing education for physicians, aimed at stabilizing the market enough to attract private insurers back into it.

Shriver plans presidential race

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Sargent Shriver plans to formally announce his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination as soon as he qualifies for matching federal funds under the federal election law.

A Shriver spokesman said the 1972 Democratic vice presidential candidate expects to qualify sometime next month.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Husband's boss really can't hold his liquor

DEAR ABBY: My husband is an executive with a large insurance company. My problem is my husband's boss. He's not an alcoholic, but when he drinks too much (which is every time we entertain him in our home), he loses control of his kidneys, and I can't tell you what he has done to our furniture! (I had to re-cover a satin brocade chair because the cleaners couldn't get the stain out.)

Another time the boss had one of those "accidents," my husband let him wear his best bathrobe for the rest of the evening. The boss wore it home, and I never saw it again. It happens to be the robe I gave my husband last year for Christmas, and I want him to get it back, but he doesn't have the nerve to ask for it because he doesn't want to embarrass his boss.

What do you suggest?

NAMELESS IN HARTFORD
DEAR NAMELESS: Since your husband is in the insurance business, perhaps you are covered for such damages and losses. (Have you flood insurance?) In any case, if your husband lacks the courage to ask for the robe, write off the loss. And next time you entertain the boss, make it a beach party.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to the husband who was being driven up a wall because his wife used "you know" at least once in every sentence;

I recently made a tape-recording to send to a friend, and when I played it back, I couldn't believe my ears. I had said, "and what not" at the end of nearly every sentence.

After that, I vowed to overcome that obnoxious habit.

The husband who is tired of hearing his wife say, "You know," all the time ought to rent or buy a tape recorder and get first-hand evidence of all those "you knows." After she hears it, she will clean up her act.

SUAN
DEAR SUAN: You know, that's a dandy idea!

DEAR ABBY: I am 64, I raised my children alone after an early divorce. Somehow, I never took the time to make myself glamorous or think of a second marriage.

Two years ago (at age 62), I had an excellent secretarial job. A man my age came from another state to be my boss. He was extremely attractive but he had a good marriage and grown children, so I had no designs on him.

Because he went home only on weekends, we dined together every night, and soon our friendship developed into an affair. It was the greatest thing that ever happened to me, although I knew there was no future in it.

He has now been permanently based with his office, and his wife has moved here. She and I have become the best of friends. (I am now retired.)

The wife and I visit each other, but the man I see as her husband is not the man who comes to visit me when he gets a night out alone. I still love him deeply, but I'll never do anything to cause another woman any pain. We are very discreet and no one knows. (Can you imagine two people in their 60s having an affair such as ours?)

He will eventually retire and make his home in a distant state, and I'll probably never see him again. Meanwhile, I'll enjoy whatever happiness I have with him. When he leaves, it will be over.

I enjoy my family, travel a lot and will just kill time until I'm old enough to die. I consider myself a respectable woman. There is no problem, so no solution is needed.

Thanks for reading this. I had to tell someone.

Controlling board in hassle with Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Controlling Board has locked horns with the Rhodes Administration over pay raises for civil service employees and layoffs in the state tax department.

The Democratic-dominated control board on Monday tabled a request by the administration for a $904,000 consultants fee to implement pay increases recommended by the Civil Service Study Commission.

Democrats say they did not oppose the salary increases, but questioned the need for another report.

At the same time, the board attempted to reinstate $2 million to prevent layoffs in the tax department, where 109 employees were dropped last week. Gov. James A. Rhodes vetoed the layoff prevention money last June as originally proposed in the state budget.

The civil service pay increases, due to take effect for 80,000 workers next Jan. 4, are tied to a complete updating of classifications in the service.

"The study was done and it was done very, very well," Administrative Services Director Richard L. Krabach told the board. "But now you have to implement it. You have to put it into effect."

Krabach said the state needs guidance in determining how pay scales should be set for 40,000 of the employees involved.

"There's no way to implement it (the pay raises). We just don't have the personnel," he said.

House Finance Chairman Myrl H. Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville said the request amounted to a "study of a study that's already been done — a repeat performance."

His motion to table the proposal until the next control board meeting in two weeks was approved 6-2 along straight party lines.

Senate Finance Chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, said he feared "every time they (the Republican administration) get in a fiscal crunch.... they're going to try to lay it at the feet of the legislature, unfairly."

Robert Howarth, the administration's representative on the control board, said the board could not properly consider appropriating the $2 million to prevent tax department layoffs.

He ruled out of order Shoemaker's motion directing the state budget office to request the money. Howarth's ruling, however, was appealed and overturned by majority Democrats, who then approved the motion in another party line vote.

Shoemaker conceded the board's directive "has no effect in law," but said Democrats do not want to be blamed for the layoffs.

"This is a sincere attempt to help a

department that is struggling," he said.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said the money is needed "in order that the fiscal hardships brought to the department by the governor do not result in making his forecast of economic doom come true."

Although Rhodes vetoed the original $2 million appropriation, he sought to rechannel the money through a separate Republican-sponsored bill. That bill has been ignored by legislative leaders.

A tax agency spokesman said the $2 million might prevent any sizable future layoffs, but probably would not enable officials to rehire personnel laid off last week. The department is one of three state agencies operating with a budget under 1974-75 levels.

State controllers refused for a second time to grant a $50,000 request from the Natural Resources Department for a consultants' study of areas stripped before the 1972 reclamation law.

"We ought to address the energy emergencies, rather than these kinds of studies," Meshel said. "This is not really an emergency... I think it's a misplaced spending of $50,000." The item was indefinitely postponed.

The board also voted unanimously to table a transportation department request for $65,000 to purchase 10 acres of park land in Canton to make way for a highway.

Transportation officials could not detail the proposal when questioned by Meshel and were denied reconsideration later in the meeting. The request will be reheard at the board's next session, Howarth said.

Mrs. Hearst slates testimony

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The mother of fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst is ready to tell a federal grand jury today what she knows about the alleged harboring of her daughter at a Pennsylvania farm house.

The grand jury is investigating allegations that sports activist Jack Scott and his wife, Micki, rented the house at South Canaan in which Miss Hearst reportedly hid out for several weeks last summer.

Catherine Hearst will be the first witness to testify before the jury about her 21-year-old daughter.

Scott, former athletic director at Ohio's Oberlin College, and his wife have also been subpoenaed to testify, but they say they will not cooperate, even if they are offered immunity from prosecution.

Miss Hearst, whose father, Randolph A. Hearst, is president of the San Francisco Examiner, was kidnaped

Feb. 4, 1974, at Berkeley, Calif., by members of a small terrorist band which called itself the Symbionese Liberation Army.

She later renounced her parents and said she had joined the SLA. She is now being sought with two other SLA fugitives, William and Emily Harris, on bank robbery and weapons charges.

"I think she (Mrs. Hearst) can offer useful information as to harboring," U.S. Atty. John Cottone said after a court hearing Monday in which the Scotts and Martin Miller, a Scott friend now studying in New York, sought to quash their subpoenas on grounds they had been wiretapped, harassed and threatened by the FBI.

Government attorneys denied there was any wiretapping or harassment. U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman took the Scott-Miller requests under advisement.

Mrs. Hearst told newsmen in San Francisco last week she had no idea why she was subpoenaed to testify — "I don't know why I am going."

Scott's brother, Walter, had also been subpoenaed, but Cottone said his appearance — scheduled for today — was canceled.

"We didn't think it would be productive and might just prolong the legal hassling," Cottone said.

Walter Scott has repudiated statements in which he claimed he had seen Patricia Hearst twice since she went into hiding, and that his family helped harbor her.

In an affidavit filed with the court by Jack and Micki Scott's attorney, William Kunstler, Walter Scott said he was drinking and taking pills when he told newsmen last week about seeing Miss Hearst in his parents' Las Vegas apartment and again in New York City.

In the affidavit, Walter Scott also retracted statements that his brother knew where Miss Hearst was now and that Jack Scott demanded $200,000 from the FBI to deliver her into custody.

KSU rebuttal set on bullet claims

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Victims of the 1970 Kent State University shootings today aimed at countering testimony that one of their number might have been wounded by a non-military bullet.

The $46 million damages trial stemming from the shootings entered the rebuttal phase after the defense rested Monday.

The victims' attorneys planned to call two witnesses to tell the jury the bullet that struck Donald S. MacKenzie in the back of the neck could have come from a military weapon.

The witnesses were to be Cyril Wecht and Milton Helpen, plaintiffs' lawyers said. Wecht was identified as Allegheny County, Pa., coroner and Helpen, the former New York City medical examiner. The attorneys said both had wide experience with gunshot wounds.

Lawyers defending present and former state officials and Ohio National Guardsmen in the suit introduced testimony from an Army surgeon that a military bullet would have ripped away most of MacKenzie's cheek when it exited.

Much of the defense's case has centered on the idea that a shot from other than a guardsman's weapon could have set off the 13-second volley that left four students dead and nine wounded.

The victims contend the only shots fired at Kent State on May 4, 1970, came from guardsmen's weapons.

The victims also planned to call the roommate of a woman who testified for the defense that she saw a civilian fire the first shot. The roommates were nearly side-by-side at the time, the jury has been told.

After the rebuttal witnesses, each side will have 2½ hours for closing arguments. The judge's charge to the jury will follow the next day, and court sources said the case could go to the jury as early as Thursday afternoon.

After the defense rested, the plaintiffs dropped their claims against three former enlisted guardsmen who testified they fired only in the air. They were James K. Brown of Orrville, Ronnie B. Myers of Wooster and Lonnie D. Hinton of Ashland.

Home insulation saves energy— saves you money.

Insulation, to DP&L recommended standards, stops wasteful loss of heat from your home. It keeps the heat you pay for inside, where you want it. And it pays for itself over and over in savings on fuel bills.

Attic insulation alone can reduce gas usage by as much as 40%.
The extra comfort you enjoy—winter and summer—is a very nice bonus.

Conservation aids in making the most productive use of gas available in this area. Gas saved at home this winter could help save someone's job, since factories and many other business places will be required to get along with less gas than they need for normal operations.

Free booklet

on insulation includes detailed do-it-yourself instructions. Call DP&L Consumer Services for your copy. Or contact a qualified insulation contractor.

Man outlives predictions

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Nearly a month after he decided to forego vital kidney machine treatments, Chuck McCracken is weaker and losing weight. But he has outlived his doctor's prediction by two weeks and says he is "doing just fine."
 The 37-year-old victim of kidney disease complicated by a thyroid condition, paralysis, diabetes and blindness, said during a weekend telephone interview, "I couldn't be better."
 His doctor gave him two weeks to live after he unplugged himself from the kidney dialysis machine. That was July 22.
 McCracken said at the time he was abandoning the machine because the treatments were agonizingly painful on account of the other medical problems complicating his disease. It was thought he had only a 30 per cent chance of living a year even with the treatments.
 "The Lord is taking care of me just fine," said the invalid. "In fact, the doctor is surprised I am as well as I am."

By JENNIFER KERR
Associated Press Writer

PROSPERITY, W. Va. (AP) — Mrs. Beatrice Gill strode to her wooden fence, waving her arms at the people with cameras who crept around the two giant green-and-chrome trucks toward her once-quiet home.

"Go on back," she shouted, her sunburned brow furrowing. "There's nothing you can see... that crying baby ruined the whole scene."

The parents of the tot edged back. They looked guilty at having interfered with the filming of an episode of NBC's "Movin' On," which moved into Raleigh County this summer for a story about coal mining.

"It's more of a hassle than I ever thought," sighed Mrs. Gill, whose house was being used for some scenes in the show. "I'm really getting tore up."

She said the "Movin' On" people just knocked on her door one day and asked to use her house for filming, probably because it has what Hollywood calls authenticity. It sits alone, surrounded by piles of coal waste and there's an abandoned tippie nearby.

"Movin' On," filmed entirely on location, circled the West and Northwest last season. The West Virginia trip was its first venture East and the story it was filming concerned a strike by coal miners.

They worked at a small coal mine, "Prosperity No. 1," whose owner, portrayed by Patricia Neal, can't afford to pay salaries and meet state and federal mine safety rules at the same time.

Her non-union miners go on strike for improved safety conditions after a roof fall at the mine. It forces the two truckers of the series to take sides in the dispute.

The tough, pragmatic Sonny Pruitt (played by Claude Adkins) keeps on delivering supplies to the mine, saying he's just trying to make a living.

His partner, the college-educated Will Chandler (Frank Converse) takes the side of the striking miners.

John Wilson, location producer of the episode, said he wrote to various state chambers of commerce in coal-producing states when seeking a good spot to film the show. West Virginia got the nod.

He said when he heard about the Beckley Exhibition Mine, a city-owned mine that has been made into a coal-mining museum, he decided that "it was a natural for our purposes."

Mrs. Gill's grey frame, fourroom, located near a closed mine, was cast in the show as the home of a miner, Sampson Eubanks (played by Gary Merrill), who is leading the strike against "Prosperity No. 1."

Despite Mrs. Gill's efforts to keep crowds away and the attempt by the "Movin' On" crews to keep filming sites secret, a constant stream of people kept driving along the road in front of her home north of Beckley, edging by sheriff's deputies and taking snapshots of Converse and Adkins and their trucks.

Encephalitis outbreaks continue

By The Associated Press

Encephalitis outbreaks striking mainly at the elderly or the young have claimed at least 26 lives in the United States this year with the season for the disease only half over, medical authorities say.

A type of the disease known as the St. Louis strain has killed 24 persons in Mississippi, according to state health officials. Most of the victims were in their 60s or 70s.

Two persons have died of western equine encephalitis in North Dakota's Red River Valley, said Dr. Walton Creech, medical epidemiologist at the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Creech said the St. Louis strain tends to strike the elderly most severely while the western equine type hits infants. He said there are exceptions in both cases.

The disease is spread by mosquitoes and unseasonal flooding has resulted in a population explosion of the insects in some areas, Creech said.

The situation in Mississippi, concentrated around Greenville along the Mississippi River, already is classified as an "outbreak," the epidemiologist said.

He said there is no specific treatment for encephalitis, which is caused by a virus.

"The virus, once it invades the central nervous system in severe form, can lead to death, complete recovery or partial recovery with long-term irreversible damage," Creech said.

Spraying to control mosquitoes is the only preventive measure available, Creech said, and massive spraying in Mississippi appears to have brought the outbreak under control. Spraying has begun in the Red River Valley.

MRS. DENNIS D. FOUT

Marriage vows exchanged by Miss Dorn and Mr. Fout

Miss Connie Sue Dorn and Dennis Dean Fout were united in marriage at 2:30 p.m. July 26 in the Newport Church of Christ in Christian Union. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lee Dorn of Rt. 1, South Solon, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fout of London.

The Rev. Gary Webb performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with two, nine-branched brass candelabras which held bouquets of purple, lilac and white asters, gladiolus, daisies, and babies breath. A brass kneeling bench was set before the altar and purple and lilac ribbons decorated the pews.

Mrs. Willis Bush, organist, and Mrs. Ed Banion, vocalist, presented the nuptial prelude.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a floor-length, A-line gown of white polyester crepe extending into a self-train. The bodice and back was styled with waistline tucks inserted with rose-sculptured lace, and white pearl buttons. The same lace edged the neckline and short puffed sleeves. Her floor-length mantilla of illusion was also edged with wide rose lace. Her dress and veil were made by Mrs. David Jackson of Mount Sterling, a friend of the family, she carried a cascade bouquet of miniature white carnations, baby's breath, ivy and accented with dried purple statice.

Mrs. George Burton, matron of honor, wore a deep purple floor-length dress of deluxe satin, with empire waist and an apron of lavender, green and white lace. She wore a purple picture hat and carried flowers in white straw basket.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Rick Hamby of Columbus, sister of the bride, Mrs. Gary Patterson of Dayton, and Miss Becky Harris of London. Their dresses were like the matron of honor except in lavender. They also wore lavender picture hats and carried baskets of flowers in deep purple.

Kim Storts of London was the flower girl. She wore a lavender dress designed like the other attendants and baby's breath and purple ribbon in her hair.

Best man was Mike Fout, a brother of the bridegroom. Serving as ushers were Buddy Earls of London, and Mike and Philip Dorn, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Dorn chose for her daughter's wedding a pink and white dress and jacket ensemble with white accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Fout wore a long sleeve dress and jacket ensemble of beige knit with orange, green and blue on a beige background. Her accessories were beige. She, too, wore an orchid corsage.

For the reception held in Madison Plains High School, a purple and lavender theme prevailed on the bride's table. The wedding cake was decorated with purple flowers and the base of the cake was encircled with fresh cut flowers and greenery. Hostesses were Mrs. Ralph Deyo of London; Mrs. Midge Morgan of Sedalia; Mrs. Mike Fout and Chery and Carole Fout of London. Rhonda Dorn, a cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book.

Grandmothers of the couple, Mrs. Lloyd Robinson of Greenville, Mrs. Russell Dorn of South Solon, and Mrs. William Fout of London, all wore carnation corsages.

When the couple left for the Smoky Mountains and Nashville, Tenn., the new Mrs. Fout was wearing an apricot pantsuit. She is a graduate of Madison Plains High School and the Ohio State School of Cosmetology. Her husband, a graduate of London High School, will enroll at Circleville Bible College in September. He is also employed at the Firestone Store in London.

Jeff DAR plans service Sunday

Members of William Horney Chapter, Dauthrers of the American Revolution of Jeffersonville will have a dedication ceremony at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 24, at a private cemetery on the late Willard Kirk farm on Gregg Rd., near Jeffersonville.

A bronze marker will be placed on the grave of Thomas Wicker Jr., N.C., a Revolutionary soldier, commemorating the Bicentennial USA.

An appropriate program has been arranged. Mrs. H.H. Haworth, DAR State Historian, Wilmington, will be the guest speaker.

The descendants of Thomas Wicker Jr., are invited, as also the public, to attend this dedication service.

DON'T give perfume the cold shoulder — or the heat treatment, either. Extremes of temperature can upset the delicate balance of oils. Cologne can be chilled for a few hours for a cooling spray.

Havens observe anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Havens of 2830 Bloomingburg-New Holland Rd., observed their 50th wedding anniversary at a family dinner on Sunday.

Miss Paula K. Metzger

Fall wedding is planned

Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Metzger of 2826 U.S. 753, S.E. announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Paula Kay, to Thomas P. McNeerney Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McNeerney of Garden City, N.Y.

The future bride graduated from Paul D. Schreiber High School in Port Washington, New York and holds a B.A. degree from C. W. Post College in Greenvale, N.Y. She is presently employed by A. Sklar and Sons in Nanuet, N.Y.

Her fiancé graduated from Garden City High School in Garden City, N.Y. He holds a B.A. degree from C.W. Post College and a M.S.W. from Fordham University. At the present time he is employed by Letchworth Village in Theills, N.Y., as a social worker.

The wedding will be an event of October 11 in Grace Methodist Church.

NEW PRE-NATAL CLASS SERIES

The fourth series of pre-natal classes at Fayette Memorial Hospital are scheduled to begin Tuesday, August 19, and continue weekly through September 23 according to Mrs. Mary Rowland, Obstetrics Nursing Supervisor at the hospital.

The classes, planned and taught by a committee of local physicians, hospital staff, County Health Department nurses and myself are designed to prepare parents for their first childbirth experience.

The classes will be conducted every Tuesday evening from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. at the hospital. A $5.00 donation is suggested if the couple would like to help with the cost of resources. Those who missed out in pre-registering through their local physicians office are still welcome to attend the sessions taught in the classroom in the hospital basement.

This first session taught by Mrs. Rowland will introduce couples to the series and outline fetal growth and development with slides prepared by Dr. K.K. Wong.

On August 26, Dr. Robert Heiny will lead a discussion on emotional support and preparation for the new baby. Mary Rowland will outline supplies needed for the hospital trip and introduce registration and financial payment policies of the hospital.

Foods needed for mother and baby will be covered in my slide presentation on September 2. A tour of the labor and delivery area will be included with a movie preview of an actual birth using breathing and relaxation exercises on September 9.

Cheryl Meddock will demonstrate newborn baby care and feeding on September 16 and Sue Maddux will explain postpartum care for the new mother and family planning on September 23.

Four of the classes will include instruction on breathing and relaxation techniques taught by hospital nursing staff Karen Fraley, Diane Inskeep and Cathy Anderson. The exercises are aimed to get the mother into condition for the "work" of labor. The mother learns to relax and concentrate only on breathing while the uterus is contracting. This conditioning enables the mother to better cope with labor and delivery. A husband or friend is urged to attend class along with the expectant mother to assist in checking breath control and learn how to give support during labor.

PACKRAT PANIC

A phone call warns you that quests are on their way. So you whirlwind through the house, picking up and cutting away — but where? For the dozenth time, you resolve to do something about those crowded closets.

Organizing storage areas to discover inner space may not be your favorite household job. But it can save you time, energy, and confusion. It makes housework easier because you can find things quickly without a search.

You may not even need to add storage space — just make better use of what you have now. Remember these basic points:

Store things at point of first use. Put often-used items in easy-to-reach places. The most convenient storage space is from knee height (about 26 inches above the floor) to shoulder or eye-level (about 58-60 inches above the floor). Put seldom used items in areas above or below these levels.

Store together things used together. If necessary, duplicate small items like scissors, thread, glue, staples, cellophane tape.

Put things where they are easy to see — where you don't have to move other items to reach them.

The packrat and procrastinator types have the most difficulty with storage problems. But even the person who keeps everything needs to occasionally take inventory and throw away items no longer useful or used.

The next step is to group together items used together. Then look at the storage space — decide what's good and what's bad about it. Make a storage plan thinking about reachable, flexible space for every item.

Gadgets can improve some areas such as very deep drawers or very deep cabinets. These are problem areas because you stack things on top of each other, then rummage to find what's needed. Use rollout trays to improve deep cabinets; racks and hooks on the doors may help, too. Use drawer dividers and trays in deep drawers.

Finding more space in storage areas brings rewards of time and energy saved. And who knows? It may even improve family dispositions and teach the kids to put their toys away!

Engaged

Thomas Darst of the Dawson-Yankeetown Rd., has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of his daughter, Bonnie Jo, to Robert L. Funk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Funk, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling. Their wedding will be an event of Sept. 20.

Shower honors bride-elect

A pre-nuptial shower honoring Miss Brenda Kay Morris, bride-elect of David Paul Miller was held recently in the Bloomingburg Town Hall. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Ronald Lahmer, Miss Marilyn Davis and Miss Cathy Hunt.

Guests present were Mrs. Donald Morris and Mrs. John F. Miller Jr., mothers of the betrothed couple, Mrs. Sam Ward, Mrs. Mary Welsh, Mrs. Tom Walker, Mrs. Cecil Thacker, Mrs. Charles Pine, Mrs. Charles Cassell, Mrs. Clarence Everhart, Mrs. Robert Noel, Mrs. John Short, Mrs. Edward Summers, Mrs. Robert Dunn and Mrs. Raye Deere.

Gifts were also sent by Mrs. Cecil Cutlip and Mrs. Charles Hunt.

Miss Morris and Mr. Miller will exchange marriage vows Aug. 23 in the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church.

Local persons attend Dallas convention

The National Fraternal Order of the Eagles Convention was held in Dallas, Tex., recently. Local Auxiliary members attending the Convention were Madam President Virginia Minshall, Molly Combs, Mrs. Margaret McCoy and Mrs. Irma Beatty and Robert Estep, Aerie Eagles president, and Charles Curtin.

Among celebrities present were Lucy Johnson Nugent, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Thomas, Rev. and Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale, the New Christy Minstrels, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Baer, Gisele McKenzie, Richard Robards, Roger Miller and the Bob Crosby Orchestra, Milton Berle, Sister M'Adle Meiser, U.S. Rep. John Dent (Pa.), Bob Hope and Charo. Soupy Sales was the Grand Marshall for the festivities.

Over $25,000 was presented to the celebrities for the Heart, Cancer, Muscular Dystrophy, St. Jude's Hospital, St. Francis Hospital, Oral Roberts University, L. B. Johnson Foundation and the respective charities which they represented.

MISS BECKY KINZER

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kinzer of Jeffersonville have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Becky, to John Schade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schade of Olmsted Township, Cleveland. John, a 1968 graduate of West Technical High School, Cleveland, is employed by Berea Prosche Audi.

Becky, a 1971 graduate of Miami Trace High School and Mount Carmel Hospital School of Radiology, is employed by Radiology Inc. of Columbus.

City board balances class loads

Elementary students who reside in the Sunnyside Elementary School area and attended Eastside Elementary School last year will be bused to various local schools this fall in an attempt to equalize teaching loads, the Washington C. H. Board of Education reported Monday.

Lewis Parrett, elementary coordinator for the city schools, said the students to be affected were those residing in the area bounded by the middle of S. Fayette Street to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co. tracks to the southeast boundaries of the city including the newly-acquired Robinson Road Trailer Court but excluding 1310 S. Elm St.

Kindergarten and first grade pupils will be transferred to Belle-Aire Elementary instead of Eastside, second and third graders will remain at Eastside and fourth and fifth grade students will be assigned to Rose Avenue Elementary School.

Parrett reported without the transfer, the first grade enrollments, with three teachers at each school would be 101 at Eastside and 65 at Belle-Aire. With the transfer, the enrollments would be equalized to 85 at Eastside and 81 at Belle-Aire.

With the transfer of fourth and fifth graders to Rose Avenue, the board stated the move would eliminate the need for the dual-grade teaching assignment at Rose Avenue.

Parrett stated he had received some strong objections from parents of fourth graders who have been transferred from school to school since the first grade.

Parrett also noted the opening and closing times of the elementary schools will be staggered due to bus scheduling with the transfer of the students through busing. Eastside School will begin at 8:45 a.m. and end at 3:30 p.m.; Cherry Hill and Rose Avenue will begin at 9 a.m. and end at 3:45 p.m.; and Belle-Aire will start at 9:15 a.m. and close at 4 p.m.

See no motive in cycle slaying

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — No firm motive has been developed in the shotgun slaying of an Ohio "Hell's Angels" motorcyclist last Thursday on I-80 near Colfax, says the assistant director of the Iowa Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

Warren D. Stump said Monday that while he had six officers working on the case, "it's hard unless somebody has something. The only thing you can do is to get all the possibilities."

James M. Bailey, 32, of Mentor, Ohio, was shot from an overpass while riding west on I-80 near Colfax with two companions en route to a motorcycle rally in South Dakota.

Gullett, Reds nip Cards, 3-2

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Left-hander Don Gullett's back in the rotation of the Cincinnati Reds, so what else is new? Gullett looked for all the world Monday night like he'd never missed nine weeks of the season with a broken left thumb, but Manager Sparky Anderson continued his game of musical chairs among Reds pitchers anyway.

"I think I felt stronger as the game went on," said Gullett, who pitched five shutout innings and was credited with a 3-2 win Reds relievers later barely preserved over the St. Louis Cardinals.

"The only thing was to try not to be too strong and overthrow," he added after restricting the Cards to three hits in his first start since June 16.

Anderson, who is known as baseball's Captain Hook, followed the impressive Gullett performance with a procession of four relievers be ginning with Pedro Borbon in the sixth.

Borbon yielded a single and hit a batter after the Reds had built their lead to 3-0 in the top of the eighth.

Will McEnaney was greeted by Ron Fairly's run-scoring double when he spelled Borbon, then Clay Carroll and finally Rawly Eastwick subdued the Cards after they scored another run in the ninth.

"This keeps us all in shape," quipped the good-natured Carroll, the 32-year-old dean of the Cincinnati relief corps, following his abbreviated stint.

"There was an article in the paper that said our relievers are not over-worked, and it's true," Carroll added. "We don't have any pressure on us. We're just playing loose."

Cincinnati's victory, its ninth in a row and 14th in 15 games, came on run-producing hits by Gullett in the second, Tony Perez in the fifth and Pete Rose in the eighth.

But before the Reds were able to blunt the Cardinal bid, the 24-year-old Eastwick endured peril in the ninth.

St. Louis runners were at every base with one out when Eastwick inherited a 2-0 count on Mike Tyson as the successor to Carroll.

Eastwick completed the walk to force in a run, then set down Fairly on a pop fly in front of the plate and induced Brock to fly out ending the game.

"In that situation, with only one out, I figured I'd better go with what had been working best for me," remarked Eastwick, who disposed of both with fast balls.

"I wanted a strikeout on Brock, but I figured if I got the fast ball out over the plate he'd fly to left field and he did," he added.

The Reds' victory, also their fifth in a row over the Cards, dropped St. Louis 2½ games behind the Philadelphia Phillies and idle Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League East.

"We figured we'd use him between five and seven innings," Anderson said in respect to Gullett, who threw 67 pitches and boosted his record to 10-3.

"I'd said before he's 100 per cent," Anderson added. "They got one hit off him, really, and that was Brock's hit up the middle."

The Pittsburgh Pirates are so low they can lose twice without playing against major leaguers.

The Pirates, hooked on a six-game tailspin, had a night off from the major league rat race but still took it on the chin, losing some pride and then sole possession of first place in the National League East.

The International League All-Stars, not above hitting a team when it's down, stepped on the Pirates 5-2, then the Philadelphia Phillies, interested in putting the Pirates down, clubbed the Atlanta Braves 6-3 to join Pittsburgh atop the NL East.

Johnson given nod

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Essex Johnson, who had to sign a medical waiver to play, was tabbed by Cincinnati Bengals Coach Paul Brown to start against the Green Bay Packers Saturday night.

The veteran 30-year-old running back who holds virtually all the team's rushing records, welcomed the news. Despite the risk of permanent injury, he said he is keeping a positive attitude.

"I feel real good about it," said Johnson of the assignment. Johnson was waived by the Bengals at the opening of the camp when surgeons reported the possibility of permanent injury if he re-injured the knee.

Johnson was taken back after signing a warrant absolving the Bengals of all responsibility if the knee is permanently injured. The Bengals, however, would guarantee a year's salary and medical costs.

"Your mind can't constantly be on it, but I'm thinking about it," getting hit. "But you can't have negative thoughts. I feel like the Nautilus program will enable me to do things right. I can't let it get the best of me."

Pennsylvania has both NL East leaders now, which is great for state pride but not much for civic pride in Pittsburgh, where the Burghers have seen the Pirates lose 11 of their last 12 games. Both the Pirates and Phillies have 67-55 records and a hand on first place, a spot Pittsburgh has occupied since June 6.

Mike Schmidt, home run hero in the Phillies victory over the Braves, hit his first homer of the night in the first inning, after Dick Allen, making his first appearance in Atlanta since he refused to play for the Braves earlier in the season, belted a two-run shot. Schmidt led off the seventh with his 28th homer of the season.

Astros 4, Mets 0
Houston Manager Preston Gomez saw the figures on the wall long before Monday night. "We've been out of it for two months," he said.

The rest of the schedule is for the future, which seems very promising for James Rodney Richard, who beat the Mets on a six-hitter.

Dodgers 3, Cubs 1
Los Angeles pitcher Burt Hooton, 11-9, gained another shot in the arm with his victory over his former teammates, the Cubs, giving up five hits before leaving for Mike Marshall in the eighth.

Expos 4-2, Padres 1-5
Ted Kubiak and Bobby Tolan drove in two runs apiece to lead San Diego to its second game victory over Montreal. Jose Morales' tie-breaking pinch-single triggered a three-run eighth inning that carried the Expos to victory in the first game.

Tigers 5, A's 3
Bill Freehan's 13th homer, a three-run shot off Vida Blue in the third inning, paved the way to the Tigers' third straight victory and trimmed Oakland's West Division lead over Kansas City to 5½ games.

Angels 5, Brewers 4
Lee Stanton's three-run homer in the ninth inning vaulted California past the Brewers. Milwaukee starter Tom Hausman took a 4-2 lead into the ninth but, with one out, Adrian Garrett, who had slugged a seventh-inning homer, stroked a single. Tom Murphy replaced Hausman and gave up Bruce Bochte's single and Stanton's 11th homer.

Indians 4-4, Rangers 3-2
Boog Powell drove in three runs and Frank Duffy hit a tiebreaking single in the sixth inning to lead Cleveland to its first game victory, then the Indians made it a sweep of Texas on the strength of homers by Rico Carty and John Lowenstein.

Trace girls continue volleyball

Miami Trace volleyball coach Rita Krammes reported that 22 girls attended Monday's first practice in preparation for the season opener next month.

The girls second practice is slated for Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. in the high school gymnasium, and prospective players including freshmen, who were unable to attend the first practice, are invited to Wednesday's workout.

Softball tourney

Warner's Sport Shop will sponsor a class 'B' softball tournament at Eymann Park Saturday and Sunday. Entry fee for the tourney is $60 and the drawing is slated for Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., at Warner's. Individual trophies will be given to the top two teams and team trophies go to the top four finishers.

IT'S HITTING TIME AGAIN — A majority of Fayette County's high school gridders probably got up this morning a little sorer than usual after contact drills started at both Miami Trace and Washington Senior High Schools Monday.

Emotions heavy at Hall of Fame

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Baseball's Hall of Fame inductees ran the gamut of emotions, from Judy Johnson's sob-interrupted acceptance speech to Earl Averill's controlled indignation over the electoral system which brought him and four others here for enshrinement.

While Johnson's words came in monosyllables and with difficulty, Averill, "The Rock" of the Cleveland Indians from 1929-39, said plenty.

In a prepared statement released after the ceremonies Monday, Averill revealed: "Had I been elected after my death, I had made arrangements that my name never be placed in the Hall of Fame."

"My disagreement with how the Hall of Fame elections are held, and who is elected, is not based on bitterness that I had to wait 34 years after retirement to receive this honor."

"But it is based on the fact that statistics alone are not enough to gain a player admittance into the Hall of Fame."

Still, the 73-year-old Averill is there now, along with Johnson, former Pittsburgh slugger Ralph Kiner, Bucky Harris and Billy Herman.

Johnson was a most remarkable speaker — not so much for what he said but because he began a sentence, stopped and cried for two minutes, then resumed his remarks at the very spot where he left off.

"So many people have been nice to me coming up" he said before the excitement caught up with him and forced his right hand over his eyes.

He appeared to reel momentarily and his son-in-law, former center fielder Bill Bruton, hurried to the stage to be sure all was well. His hand went to Johnson's shoulder before the 75-year-old whispered, "I'll be all right."

Then he returned to the microphone and said: "... I want to thank all of them."

The crowd of 7,500 gathered at the grassy clearing where the ceremonies were held, applauded one of the top third basemen in the folklore-history of Negro League baseball.

Buckeye cage coach to address Kiwanis

One of the most successful collegiate basketball coaches of all time will be visiting Washington C. H. Monday.

Ohio State mentor Fred Taylor will be on hand to address the Kiwanis Club at 6:15 p.m. Monday, and due to expressed public interest the meeting will be held in the Mahan Building and will be open to the public.

Persons wishing to attend the dinner meeting should make reservations by contacting George Lundberg, 619 Albin Ave., 335-1319, no later than Friday. Reservations must be paid in advance; there is a $3.50 charge for the dinner meeting.

Taylor has been head basketball coach at Ohio State University for 17 years, and during this period the sport has enjoyed its most successful era in the history of the University.

Under Taylor, the Buckeye cagers have won seven Big Ten Championships, including five titles in a row, the only time in Big Ten Basketball history this has been accomplished.

The Buckeyes have been equally successful in the N.C.A.A. tournament play, winning 14 and losing four in five appearances. In addition to the National Championship won in 1960, Taylor's Buckeye teams were runners-up in 1961 and 1962 and finished third in the 1968 nationals.

Taylor was voted "College Coach of the Year" both in 1961 and again in 1962 by both the National Basketball Writers' Association and by the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Longer playoffs urged by Sparky

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson appears headed for the National League playoffs, but doesn't like the way they're set up.

"It's a nightmare," said Anderson, whose Reds have built a massive lead in the National League Western Division. "It's three out of five games and you know the minute you lose three, you're gone."

The Cincinnati skipper said the opposing team in the short series is unimportant.

"It isn't the club you're playing against, it's what it all stands for. The only way you're going to get into the World Series is to win the playoffs and everyone wants to get into the World Series," he said.

Anderson, who managed the Reds in

FRED TAYLOR

The Buckeye coach is a native of Zanesville. He entered Ohio State in the fall of 1946 and had an outstanding athletic career. He played center on the Buckeye basketball teams of 1948, '49 and '50, the latter year Ohio State won the Big Ten Championship. Curiously he did not play high school basketball.

In baseball at Ohio State, Fred was a fine first basemen, winning All-American honors in 1950.

Following his graduation, Taylor signed a professional baseball contract with the Washington Senators. He spent four years in baseball, ranging from the high minors to the Senators. In the fall of 1953 he accepted a position with the Ohio State Athletic Department as freshman basketball and baseball coach, a position he held until June, 1958, when he became head basketball coach.

1973 when they won 99 games but lost to the New York Mets in the playoffs, said "I don't think the best club always gets into the World Series."

"I'd really like to play four-of-seven in the playoffs," he added. "The playoffs are so important, to me they should be played the same as the World Series."

Another change in the playoff structure Anderson advocated would give the team with the best winning percentage a home field advantage instead of alternating the divisions each year.

Should the Reds win their division, they would play the first two games at home, then play as many as three on the road.

"I'd like to see a home field advantage for the team that has the best percentage. The team that battles the hardest during the 162 games should get an advantage. They get it in basketball and hockey," he noted.

"But I'm not running things," added the white-haired manager. "Rules are rules and we have to abide by them. It's just that I think four-of-seven is fairer than three-of-five."

If the Reds make the playoffs, they will have a six-day layoff between the end of the season and the first playoff game, scheduled for Oct. 4.

"I'll probably hold a workout every day to stay sharp," Anderson said.

Collegiate hopefuls spend time on familiar grounds

Not that the Miami Trace football team won't be a South Central Ohio League title contender again this year with the talent on hand, but head coach Fred Zechman would have less to worry about if several of the players working out with the Panthers this last week were sticking around for a game or two.

Nine former Panther grid standouts have been running through conditioning drills with the Miami Trace squad this summer in preparation for their own football programs in college.

The nine collegiate hopefuls, Tom Riley, Jeff Sagar, Jay Mossbarger, Pete Jones, Jeff Spears, Steve Warnock, Jay Waddle, Gardner Cobb and Tom Reisinger, left this week for their grid programs at various colleges in Kentucky and Ohio.

The tri-captains of last season's SCOL co-champions Panther squad will be teammates again this year wearing Capital Crusader uniforms. Riley, Sagar and Mossbarger will be joining one of Ohio's most successful college grid programs.

Captain has compiled a 67-47-2 mark

under head coach Gene Slaughter, who will begin his 15th season at the Crusaders helm this fall coming off last year's 5-4 record.

The three all-Ohio selections have their work cut out for them as 39 lettermen including nine defensive and seven offensive starters return to the Crusaders this fall.

Ninty-five gridders including 45 freshmen are expected to be on the field when the Crusaders open two-day practices Thursday.

The Capital coaching staff is reportedly pleased with the additions of Riley, Sagar and Mossbarger. Although it is too early to tell what positions the three will end up playing, the Capital coaches have seen game films, and have Sagar and Riley tabbed as running backs while Mossbarger is expected to remain at defensive end.

Another member of last season's SCOL co-champion squad, Tom Reisinger, will hopefully be seeing some action this season at Otterbein College.

Reisinger also has to contend with a large number of returning lettermen as first-year coach Rich Seills has 14 starters returning and 99 prospective gridders on the pre-season roster.

Reisinger, who anchored the Panthers offensive line last season, is listed as a 6'1", 195-pound center. He will be one of 39 freshmen trying to secure a berth on Otterbein's traveling squad when the college opens its season September 13 at Manchester College in Indiana.

Otterbein was 6-3 last season and finished second in their league behind Baldwin-Wallace.

The other ex-Panthers know a little more of what to expect as fall practice begins, because they have been through the collegiate training camps in previous years.

Jay Waddle enters his final year as the mainstay of Murray State

NO LONGER PANTHERS — Five of the nine former Miami Trace gridders, who went through preseason conditioning drills with the Panthers, got together before a scheduled afternoon workout at the school last week. From left to right are: Tom Riley and Jay Mossbarger, both headed for Capital University; Gardner Cobb, a University of Cincinnati griddier; and Pete Jones and Jeff Spears, who are gridders at Morehead State University.

University's defensive line. He is not only prized as an awesome tackle but also as a team leader. He was picked as the Racers lone captain this year.

Waddle accounted for 65 solo tackles and 59 assists during Murray states 9-2 season last year. The 6'2", 220 pounder's totals were the most ever record by a tackle at the University.

The 1971 Miami Trace grad will be one of 17 returning starters expected to open the season at home in new Stewart Stadium against Western Carolina on September 20.

Another Kentucky University has a Panther look to it as Steve Warnock, Jeff Spears and Pete Jones suit up for the Morehead state grid team this week.

Former Panther coach Roy Lucas lured the three south to play for him at Morehead, and the three are expected to see considerable action September 30 in the season opener against Marshall.

Spears is a returning letterman and is slated to start at split end. The 5'9", 170 pounder showed his stuff in last springs inter-squad game by hauling down a touchdown pass.

Warnock, a 6'1", 220-pound tackle, is currently a second stringer, while Jones is rated as a third team quarterback before summer drills started.

Jones and Spears are sophomores and Warnock is listed as a junior.

Gardner Cobb will be in a University of Cincinnati uniform again this season. He has been working out with weights all summer and will be trying to return to offensive tackle duties after undergoing knee surgery.

The 6'2", 240-pound muscular tackle is listed as a junior on the Bearcat squad this season.

So the former standouts have all left the younger Panthers and are on their way to college, but the nine would have been a heck of a fine bunch to build a high school team around; even a college team.

Her dedication in photography is deep and personal; her struggle to pursue recognition as a photojournalist is unceasing; her perseverance in the slow documentary approach to improve social conditions is total; her success in achieving gallery exhibition status is "gradually sudden;" and her hope to make a complete life - and a living - in photography sustains her faith in the future.
Her name is Sherry Suris, 30, of New York.

She represents a large segment of the new youth group in photography: talented, earnest, committed to the medium as a means of communication, but who fight a continual battle for free-lance survival amidst economic crises.

I first met Sherry when she was one of the volunteer assistants to the great W. Eugene Smith, working at whatever chores had to be done in his dingy New York loft studio so the maestro could concentrate on his prints, his books to be published and his exhibitions. Meanwhile, she absorbed the inspiration of Gene's dedication, his photo philosophy and his unfailing craftsmanship.

She took time out to go to Israel where she taught English to live but lived for her free-lance photography. Then came a notable assignment: to document the arrival of Jewish immigrants from Russia at Tel Aviv's airport. Battling customary red tape, she returned again and again to capture the joy, hopes, tears, fears, frustrations and uncertainties of the immigrants from Russia coming to a promised land.

She found another assignment for herself: color images of the faithful who flocked to Bethlehem's Church of the Nativity and Jerusalem's Church of the Holy Sepulchre. For more than a year, she focused on Catholic, Franciscan, Armenian, Greek and Russian Orthodox Christians in prayer.

Controlling High Blood Pressure

Can high blood pressure be caused by eating too much red meat?

Mrs. E. T., N. C.

Dear Mrs. T.:

At the turn of the century, long before there was much knowledge of high blood pressure, red meat was arbitrarily blamed. Kidney disease, too, was attributed to red meat.

Even though this idea was medically and scientifically disproved long ago, the myth still persists.

There are many more important limitations imposed on people who have high blood pressure. Today, with diets, drugs and the removal of stressful situations, many cases of hypertension (high blood pressure) can be kept within normal limits.

More and more effort is being made to find early cases of high blood pressure. In this way, the condition can be controlled and complications prevented.

Almost every month, during my menstrual periods, I have one day of pain in my lower abdomen. It lasts for a day and then goes away. Can you explain this?

Miss R. V., Ill.

Dear Miss V.:

The condition you describe may be "mittel-schmerz," a

German word meaning, "middle pain."

It describes the pain that some women feel in the lower abdomen, midway during their menstrual period.

This pain may coincide with the ovulation period, or the time when an egg is discharged from the ovary.

My first child was born with pyloric stenosis. Is there a possibility that my next one will have it, too?

Mrs. G. J., Vt.

Dear Mrs. J.:

Newborn babies occasionally have a powerful muscle that interferes with the passage of food from the stomach into the intestines.

This is not a hereditary condition. The diagnosis is made at birth, or shortly afterwards.

If the condition cannot be controlled with drugs, surgery is performed. The operation takes a few minutes. Once the operation is over, children usually proceed to grow and develop normally.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism: A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers helpful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D. (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 578, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. So what's new? Maybe you've seen on TV the Kodak commercials about the new Kodak Tele-Instamatic camera. Click, you've got the entire scene, and flick, you've moved in the telephoto lens for a telephoto shot. For the guy who always wanted to shoot telephoto but was reluctant to shell out four hundred bucks for the SLR route, this is an answer. This "click, flick" thing answers to the name, Kodak Tele-Instamatic 608, and right now our price for the thing is $25.95. You may want to come in and get one. Oh, yes, it also uses the new FLIPFLASH.

So what else is new? Well, more and more of our friends are just thrilled to pieces with the beautiful wall prints they are getting made from their favorite slides or negatives through a new custom lab we've discovered. How would a beautifully mounted 16x20 color print look on your wall made from that favorite slide of yours? Man, you wouldn't believe what beautiful work this lab does. That's something you should look about.

Many of our friends are also debating about going the super 8 sound movie route. Let's face it, in the hands of a dud this sound movie thing is ludicrous, but many of our friends are doing a great job with Ektasound. We've been shooting sound movies for 25 years and we've had lots of fun, from the old days of the 202 on 16 mm through regular 8 sound stuff and now with the Ektasound system. Maybe we can help you to a lot of fun with sound movies. Come in and ask questions.

It looks now like classes will start at KCFN about the second week of September. If you're interested you may want to come in and check.

Theft from vehicle checked by police

Three larcenies and a personal injury were reported by Washington C.H. police today. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported an incident of property destruction and a personal injury.

The wing vent on a van belonging to Donald D. Ellerbrock, 309 1/2 N. Hinde St., was smashed and several items stolen from the vehicle, including a $25 circular saw, a $74 socket and wrench set, drill bits valued at $18, a $21 level, a $9 hammer, a $10 cross-hand saw, a $7 pop rivet gun and a $12 wood chisel. The theft took place sometime between 11 p.m. Wednesday and 6 a.m. Thursday. Police reported the incident today because Ellerbrock was summoned out of town after the incident and was not able to file the report until he returned.

A vacuum cleaner valued at $136.75 and owned by the Electrolux Corp., Cincinnati, was stolen from the Joyce A. Pierce home, 503 East St., sometime Friday. Police are investigating.

Tools valued at $45 and two quarters of motor oil were stolen from a car belonging to Beryl Pierce, 860 Kohler Dr., between 11:50 p.m. Saturday and 8:30 a.m. Monday, police reported.

Carrie A. Acton, 14 months, 213 Bereman St., was injured when dropped by her three-year-old brother who was carrying her at 3:30 p.m. Sunday. The child was admitted to Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Pearl Campbell, 52, Columbus, sustained an injured right knee at Deer Creek at 5:50 p.m. Monday when she fell down an embankment. The woman was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital, sheriff's deputies reported.

A 10-year-old Fayette County girl and a 14-year-old Fayette County boy were apprehended by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department for allegedly writing obscene words on a truck belonging to Homer Smith, Bogus Road, putting trash in the gas tank, driving nails into the tires, damaging his turtle traps and fence gate and emptying dirt on his picnic table.

The children have been released to their parents, sheriff's deputies reported.

Greenfield women arrested after downtown disturbance

Two Greenfield women are presently incarcerated in the Fayette County jail because of a disorderly conduct charge filed against them by Washington C.H. police early Tuesday morning.

Washington C.H. Police Ptl. Mike Stritenberger reported he heard loud argumentative voices coming from the Emerald Inn, S. Fayette Street, at 2:01 a.m. Tuesday and went in to investigate, accompanied by auxiliary officer John R. Bane. They discovered two women in the basement of the tavern and asked them to come out. One woman, Rita K. Fridley, 22, Greenfield, became violent and abusive and used profane language toward the two police officers. Ms. Fridley then attempted to flee upstairs and tried to strike Ptl. Stritenberger with a bar stool. She was subdued and taken to the awaiting police cruiser outside the bar.

Washington C.H. Ptl. Larry Mongold arrived on the scene and questioned Ptl. Stritenberger and Bane whether or not they needed assistance. While doing so, the other woman, Katherine S. Simmons, 23, Greenfield, became loud and abusive toward Ms. Fridley as she sat in the cruiser and was also placed under arrest.

Ms. Fridley is charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest and is incarcerated in lieu of $850 bond and Ms. Simmons is charged with disorderly conduct and is incarcerated in lieu of $100 bond.

Tree, auto fires doused by firemen

Washington C.H. firemen extinguished two fires Monday.

Three small boys playing with matches set a junk car on fire at Jones' Marathon service station, 1404 N. North St., at 6:40 p.m. Monday. Washington C.H. firemen extinguished the blaze with water and reported the auto owned by Clarence Jones, 220 Belle Ave.

A tree was set afire at 11:47 a.m. Monday by Ralph Seslar, 3385 Ohio 41-N, who was attempting to burn out a diseased section of the tree, according to Washington C.H. firemen who were summoned to the blaze.

Driver charged in city mishap

A Greenfield woman was charged with recklessness after an accident Monday morning. Washington C.H. police reported today along with a second traffic mishap. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a minor accident on private property in the county Monday.

A car driven by Lucy M. McElwain, 87, Greenfield, struck a parked car belonging to Carleta L. Smith, 3968 Camp Grove Rd., as she attempted to park alongside the Smith auto on E. Market Street at 10:10 a.m. Monday. Damage was moderate and police cited Ms. McElwain for reckless operation.

Cars driven by Roxa S. Dilley, 16, of 836 Maple St. and Diana F. Ford, 18, Bogus Road, collided at the Bonded service station, corner of North and Market streets, at 3:50 p.m. Monday, police reported.

A car driven by Willard J. Mitchell Jr., 31, of 728 Eastern Ave., struck a fence belonging to David C. Seymour, 1430 Pearl St., Friday evening, while traveling on a private lane, Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported today.

Judge presented huge hot dog

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The adage "you are what you eat" may apply to Municipal Court Judge Maurice Niehaus after a gag ceremony Monday.

The city prosecutor's office honored the judge with "The Order of The Hot Dog" following his decision last week that vendors could sell food on downtown's Fountain Square.

The honor entitled Niehaus to "all the rights and privileges of the order" and required him to wear a badge reading "Pick a pair of plump ones."

The judge also was presented with a three-foot hot dog.

Report on county fair given at Kiwanis Club

A report on ticket sales at the Fayette County Fair was heard by members of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club at the regular monthly board of directors meeting Monday night in the Lafayette Inn.

George Gibbs, chairman of the Kiwanis Club's fair committee, said paid admissions at the 1975 Fayette County Fair totaled 24,000 as compared with 24,304 in 1974.

However, Gibbs said money paid totaled $23,695.50 this year as compared with $23,300 in 1974. Gibbs said more children attended the fair in 1974 than in 1975, but more cars paid to park inside the fairgrounds in 1975.

Kiwanis Club members and their wives worked a total of 472 1/2 hours during the week of the county fair. Gibbs expressed his appreciation to all members for their cooperation.

Fred Taylor, head basketball coach at Ohio State University, will be the featured speaker at the next regular Kiwanis Club meeting on Monday, Aug. 25.

Kiwanis Club president Guy M.

Foster said because of the tremendous amount of interest in Ohio State basketball in Washington C.H., club members have decided to extend invitations to the general public to attend the meeting.

The meeting will be held in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds with dinner to be served at 6:15 p.m.

Reservations must be completed no later than Friday, Aug. 22. The cost for dinner is $3.50 per person and must be paid in advance. Reservations may be made by calling George Lundberg, 619 Albin Ave., at 335-1319 before Friday.

The Rev. Richard Ward was welcomed into the club as a transfer member from Sidney. Rev. Ward is a retired Methodist minister now residing in Washington C.H. with his wife, Avis.

In other matters, bills in the amount of $604.10 were approved for payment and Harold Heckaman was presented a nine-year attendance pin by Richard Maddux.
